

CONGRESS DEADLOCK BLOCKS RELIEF BILL AND BLASTS HOPE FOR ADJOURNMENT TODAY

UNOFFICIAL RAIDER TO FACE CHARGES IN YOUTH'S DEATH

Family Employs William Schley Howard To Prosecute Slayer of Clarence Dinsmore, Killed Near Still.

NO BADGES SHOWN, COMPANION SAYS

Shooting in Douglas Is Described as "Cold-Blooded Murder," by Father of Victim.

Unrelenting efforts to bring the slayer of Clarence Dinsmore, 22 years old, to trial for murder were declared Thursday by his family when they arrived in Atlanta to return his body to Afton, Ga., his mountain village home. He was shot under the right shoulder late Wednesday afternoon by Fred Pierce, an unofficial member of a still-raiding party near Douglasville.

Immediately upon reaching Atlanta Thursday morning M. A. Dinsmore, father of the young man, and Ray Burt, father of Dinsmore's bride of four months, retained William Schley Howard to aid Solicitor-General S. W. Ragdale, of the Tallapoosa circuit, in prosecuting the case against Pierce, whom they described as "a cold-blooded murderer, who shot Dinsmore for no reason whatever."

Solicitor Ragdale said he ordered Pierce jailed Wednesday night and expressed the opinion that he was in the Douglas county jail, but Sheriff Baggett denied that Pierce was held by himself or his deputies.

The solicitor said he spent all of Wednesday night investigating the shooting and would, unless new evidence developed to show the shooting was an accident, ask a grand jury indictment for murder. He said Pierce would be held without bond until such time as he is tried.

When informed that the Dinsmore family had retained William Schley Howard to aid in the prosecution, Mr. Ragdale said he had heard nothing of that nature but expressed gratification that aid would be offered.

The shooting was described in the prohibition administrator's office here as the result of a scuffle between Dinsmore and a man, for the possession of a pistol which the latter held in his hand when he leaped upon the running board of a car occupied by Dinsmore and driven by James Parks.

Parks denied that a scuffle ensued and charged that Pierce leaped upon the running board with gun in hand and, shouting in oath, fired the bullet into Dinsmore's back.

The officers in the raiding party brought Parks to Atlanta and he was retained before Commissioner Griffith Thursday morning on a charge of manufacturing whisky and released on $500 bond.

Evidence offered concerning Parks was given by a negro officer said they found at a still three miles from the scene of the shooting, which occurred some 300 yards from the home of Ray Burt, Dinsmore's father-in-law, whom he and his young wife were visiting. The negro, Ernest Bradford, informed the officers that he was employed to run the still by three men in a green coupe.

Jury's Petition Saves Negro From Execution

JACKSON, Miss., July 14.—(AP) On petition of 8 of the 12 jurors who sentenced him to die, Governor Connor today commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed upon Jesse Parks, Sharkey county negro, convicted of killing two other negroes and burning their bodies in their home.

The jurors' petition was based on evidence that blood found on Parks' knife and clothing was not human blood, but the blood of an animal. Laboratory analysis of the blood was not presented to the jury, Governor Connor was informed.

U. S. IS NOT PARTY TO LAUSANNE PACT, HOOVER DECLARES

France and England in Diplomatic Tangle in Regard to Debts Owed to United States.

By the United Press.

European diplomacy became tangled in its own verbiage Thursday and frantic efforts were made by the chancelleries of America's two heaviest debtor nations to reconcile diametrically opposite statements regarding the $11,000,000,000 owing the United States.

President Herbert Hoover, in a letter to Senator William E. Borah, made it plain that the United States had not been consulted on any of the supplementary pacts adopted at Lausanne. His most striking phrase was that:

"The United States . . . is not a party nor in any way committed to such an agreement."

France insisted, through Premier Eduard Herriot, that the new Anglo-French understanding prevents Great Britain from dealing individually with the United States, or without consultation with Paris.

Great Britain, in horrified accents an evident fear of causing a misunderstanding in America, denied categorically that any such agreement exists.

Meanwhile, speaking as an individual, Ambassador A. T. V. McMillan today read Europe a moral lesson on the subject of international honesty and fulfillment of debt agreements, tagging his text from George Washington's philosophy.

The force of the Anglo-French entente cordiale, which statesmen were busy all day explaining did not mean "gentleman's agreement," which actually is a "rider" on the major understanding. This provides that the Lausanne settlement shall be effective "if and when" the nations arrive at a satisfactory solution of their own debt problems. This, briefly, would be when they arrived at a "satisfactory" settlement with Washington.

The other agreement, regarded in some American quarters as presenting an attempt by a united Europe to "run up" on the United States at the Anglo-French compact, now increased

Postoffice Marble Contract Is Signed

Contract for 30,000 cubic feet of Georgia marble for use on the exterior of the new postoffice at Hunter, Spring and, Forsyth streets, was signed Thursday by Colonel Sam Tate for the marble company and by the Great Lakes Construction Company, general contractors.

The postoffice job will enable the marble company to put at least 150 additional men to work, it was said. The contract price is approximately $150,000, and the United States will take 100 carloads. The Marietta plant of the marble company will begin fabricating the stone at once.

The postoffice contract, originally called for Indiana limestone for the exterior, but through the efforts of Congressman Charles R. Crisp, Robert Ramspeck and John Wood, the specifications were changed by the government and the home product was specified.

Heat Fails To Disturb Maude as City Tries To Keep Cool

Maude, with 50 summers of hot weather behind her, doesn't mind the heat much, what with "Uncle" Matt Leonard, keeper of the Grant park zoo, cooling her off with a hose. Wednesday's heat was foiled by the young fellows at the upper right, Louis Fiel, 364 Pryor, S. E., and Roy and Jack Pirkle, of Decatur, when they slipped in the Grant park pool an hour ahead of opening time and sought refuge under the intake pipe. Weatherman Arthur H. Scott, in the lower picture, gives himself a little breeze with his hat while he scans the barometer with forlorn hope, because, says he, no relief is in sight.

CALVIN COOLIDGE URGES SALES TAX

Former President's Article To Appear Today in Collier's Weekly.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—A general sales tax is advocated by Calvin Coolidge in an article appearing in tomorrow's Collier's Weekly.

The former president also writes that excessive taxation of a comparatively small number of rich people is a grave threat to the whole structure of American democracy.

"Many are beginning to wonder," he writes, "if it would not be wise to supplement our system of taxation by providing that a large number of people should pay a small but certain direct tax."

"One of the tobacco and gasoline produce a very large revenue which is not burdensome to the consumer. The extension of such a system to many other commodities would seem to be in complete harmony with the spirit of a self-governing people."

"If it is necessary to meet an emergency," he also writes, "excessively high taxes on a few large incomes and inheritances might be made temporarily without great injury. But to adopt such a system permanently and, under the pretense of raising revenue, pursue a policy of expropriation and attempted redistribution of wealth would have the greatest consequences."

"One of two things would be likely to result:

"Enterprise would be stifled, accumulations of property would be dissipated, and a condition of depression, with a falling standard of living, economic suffering, and a great poverty on the part of the people."

"The other alternative would be the creation of a class of great wealth, who would have a large control of the government because it would be dependent on their money for its support."

Manley Transferred To Fort Bragg Camp

W. D. Manley, former head of the Manley chain of banks, and who about 30 months ago began a seven-year term for violation of the federal banking laws, was transferred to Fort Bragg about three weeks ago, it was reported Thursday.

He began his service in the Atlanta federal prison, after his conviction in the federal district court here, Grash of the chain resounded throughout the state and had a depressing effect on general economic conditions. A. C. Aderhold, warden of the pen, declined to confirm or deny that Manley could be reached by mail at the institution, referring inquirers to Washington.

City Continues To Swelter As Heat Wave Sweeps South

A few scattered clouds Thursday were all that saved Atlanta from equaling or surpassing Wednesday's heat record for the year of 94 degrees. As it was the mercury climbed to 93.2 at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and those who had sweated all week could have sworn that Thursday had bested Wednesday.

All morning the mercury was slightly below Wednesday's figures, which were 90 degrees until noon. At 1:30 o'clock the reading was 91; at 2:30, 92; and at 3:30, 93.2. The low Thursday morning was 74.

There is no immediate hope of cooler weather, and no prospect of rain, Arthur H. Scott, acting head of the weather bureau, said Thursday.

"All the indications point to more of the same," he said.

KEY WILL SPEAK AT SPAN OPENING

Addresses by Mayor James L. Key, James D. Robinson, president of the Central Marietta Street Association, in charge of the exercises; Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the executive committee of the First National bank, and John W. Slaton, representing John W. Grant, will feature a gala opening at 10 o'clock Saturday morning of the reconstructed Whitehall street viaduct.

The bridge will be thrown open officially to traffic when Councilman William M. Rogers, chairman of council's bridge committee, cuts the red, white and blue ribbon as a signal for traffic to begin to move over the structure.

The Marietta association was one of the moving influences in obtaining the new structure, which completes modernization of all the bridges spanning the railway canyon of downtown Atlanta. It is of the most modern deck-type and is constructed of concrete and steel. It replaced a viaduct built in 1901 and which was declared to be dangerous to the public.

The bridge was closed to traffic June 1 by Elmer Company, contractors, and every effort has been made to expedite completion of the work in order to place it again in service. Coincident with the reopening, street cars which have been restricted during progress of the work will begin again to use the rebuilt structure, and traffic which has been diverted around it will again cross it.

Cost of the work was $55,000, borne equally by the city and county under a co-operative plan. Money was lent to each of the governments since both were short of cash. Mr. Grant made the loan to the city without interest.

VALUE IS REDUCED ON MITCHELL DAM

U. S. Commission Places Value of $282,133 on "4,000,000 Items."

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—The value placed upon Mitchell dam by the Alabama Power Company was sliced sharply today by the federal power commission in an order placing a value of $282,133 upon items which the company valued at nearly $4,000,000.

The company placed the original cost of the dam project at $10,648,056, much of which was undisputed. Of the eight items in controversy for years, however, the commission refused to allow claims of $3,651,260 and allowed only the $282,133.

The bulk of the reduction was in land values. $3,500,000 being claimed and but $76,135 allowed. A fee of $183,540 to the Dixie Construction Company also was thrown out. The commission ruling that since the construction company was owned entirely by the power company, it was entitled to no extra fee over and above building costs.

The other items in dispute were listed as general administration, $171,028, claimed and allowed; J. T. Newcomb for service $4,000 claimed, $2,500 allowed; W. T. Henderson for services, $375 claimed and allowed; Laflair and others, $750 claimed and allowed; electric energy used during construction $72,758 claimed and $30,680 allowed.

The company claimed $672,342 for interest during construction. The commission will determine this item later.

SENATE DELAYS ACTION ON GARSAUD NOMINATION

Action on the nomination of Marcel Garsaud, of New Orleans, for reappointment to the power commission was delayed today by the senate in-state commerce committee until next December.

Chairman Coughenour, republican, Michigan, announced the committee had agreed in executive session that a vote would be had at the first meeting next December, without further debate on hearings.

Kreuger Personal Debt Is Set at $225,000,000

NEW YORK, July 14.—(UP)—Ivar Kreuger, suicide match king, left personal debts of about $225,000,000, according to the report of the Swedish receivers of his Kreuger & Toll Company, to the New York Stock Exchange.

Two companies of the khaki-clad sea soldiers were sent to the capital to establish a guard. Five minutes later they were withdrawn.

Police were ordered to clear the capitol square and remove the affront to congressional dignity. But two hours after this order was issued it also was recalled, and late tonight the veterans, after a major tactical victory, were tramping still, back and forth, tired, hot, hungry, their feet blistered, but "going strong."

HOOPER ACCUSED OF DESIRE TO HALT POWER TRUST QUIZ

Norris Claims Investigation Already Has Bared $520,000,000 in Bogus Utility Valuations.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, contended today in the senate that President Hoover would like to stop the federal trade commission's investigation of power companies, which he said had already revealed watered capitalization of $520,000,000 in those companies.

Norris said that although the investigation was not yet complete it had already revealed this much "financial water and air on which the poor people must pay for all time."

"And yet," he said, "if President Hoover had his way all this would stop, all this work in behalf of the people."

The independent Nebraska republican who supported Alfred E. Smith in 1928 already has declared in favor of Franklin D. Roosevelt in the coming election.

"Try to comprehend what that means," Norris said, "withholding his review of the results of the power inquiry."

"The commission had disclosed writups of $520,000,000 upon which the poor people, the consuming public must pay for all time, not a year, but forever."

"That will produce an income to keep these financial vultures in luxury."

"Who's going to stand for it? And yet when we tax them, they have incomes enough to take it off and put it on the poor consumer."

"Are we helpless? Is there any way the people can be rescued from this giant octopus?"

Norris added that the "unconscionable operations of the power trust cover, practically every nook and corner of the United States."

Senator Norris also charged that one of the attorneys for the Appalachian Electric Company, in the New River case in Virginia, had resorted to "ethical and dishonest tactics in fighting the government's case to jurisdiction over a proposed project on the New River."

Norris asserted the attorney, whom he identified only as a "Mr. Abbott," had taken the government's answer

Slemp Advises Hoover To Ask New Amendment

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP) Leaving the White House this afternoon, C. Bascom Slemp—former secretary to President Coolidge—said he had advised President Hoover to take an "unqualified stand" on prohibition in his forthcoming speech accepting renomination.

Slemp said he suggested that the president declare approval of an amendment to replace the eighteenth.

Although Slemp declined to give Mr. Hoover's reaction, he said he believed Mr. Hoover would follow this line.

Evangelist's Condition Called 'Precarious'

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—(UP)—While followers knelt before the Angelus Temple altar to pray for her recovery, Alvin Karpis, McArthur Hutton, the evangelist, lay critically ill tonight in her Moorish retreat at Lake Elsinore.

So serious was the famed woman pastor's condition that orders to remove her to a Los Angeles hospital were hastily countermanded by physicians.

"She is too weak to be moved," said Dr. Edward Huntington Williams, personal physician to Mrs. Hutton. "She has a severe concussion suffered in a fall last Sunday and may even have a fractured skull. Her condition is precarious."

The evangelist suffered two nasal hemorrhages in the last 24 hours, it was learned, and doctors feared a brain hemorrhage might follow as a result of the skull injury.

Burly guards in white uniforms guarded the Moorish castle gates. They reported that Mrs. Hutton was in an almost continual state of coma, with occasional lucid moments when she recognized her husband, David L. Hutton.

LOAN PUBLICITY CAUSE OF SPLIT BETWEEN HOUSES

Representatives Cling to Provision Calling for Publication of All Lending Data While Senators Oppose This.

SENATE TO YIELD TO HOUSE DEMAND

Unprecedented Tangle on Procedure Also Serves To Retard Home Loan Conference.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—The modified unemployment relief bill was jeopardized today by a new conflict between the two branches of congress which threatened to prolong the session.

The $2,122,000,000 bill became ensnared in a dispute between the house and senate out of which some of the congressional leaders were fearful a measure would emerge that President Hoover might veto, preventing congress from adjourning this week.

The house by a vote of 172 to 150 insisted upon its provision in the bill requiring that publicity be given to all future loans by the Reconstruction Corporation.

Senate conferees, reported to have been informed that this provision was not acceptable to the president, insisted upon its elimination, and the senate upheld their stand.

Despite frank references in the senate to the possibility of a veto, there were indications tonight that the senate conferees would yield to the house when the conferees are resumed tomorrow.

Many leaders were hopeful in the absence of definite word from Mr. Hoover that it would be to him with the publicity clause, thus permitting adjournment Saturday.

The senate sent the bill back to conference tonight with instructions to insist upon elimination of the publicity clause. The motion of Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, chairman of the senate conferees, was to "avoid a veto."

Chaired by Senator Connally, democrat, Texas, for yielding to the president, Robinson said he wanted to eliminate all controversies possible in order to pass the bill.

"We ought not to get into a deadlock," he said.

Long Joins Robinson. Senator Long, democrat, Louisiana, Robinson's critic, took the opposite view, and urged the senate not to risk a veto.

Connally, however, contended congress should do what it thought best and let the president take the responsibility of vetoing the bill if he wanted to. Senator Lewis, democrat, Illinois, agreed.

Republicans took no part in the discussion, which followed a day's whirl of developments on the bill. Meanwhile conferees on the home loan administration-sponsored home loan discount bill reached an agreement

Britain and Ireland May Arbitrate Snarl

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, July 15.—(Friday).—(AP)—A scheme for investigation by a tribunal of differences between the Irish Free State and Great Britain was understood to have been proposed today after the Free State had gone ahead with plans for a tariff war with Britain.

Acceptance by President Eamon de Valera of an invitation to confer with Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald in London at the same time was regarded in political circles here as hopefully altering the situation arising out of the Free State's failure to pay land annuities to the British treasury and the subsequent retaliatory tariff measures.

William Norton, chairman of the Free State labor party, after a consultation early yesterday with President de Valera, carried a plan to London, which he said was acceptable to the Free State. It is understood the plan provided for a tribunal of four members, two nominated by the British government and two by the Free State, who would discuss the situation and report to both governments.

No official statement was obtainable, but it was stated that the government would make an important announcement in the daily press today.

Colorful Parade Closes 68th Elks Convention
BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 14.—The sixty-eighth convention of the grand lodge of Elks was brought to a colorful close today with a parade in honor of the newly installed officers.

Installation exercises were held this morning and the new officers, headed by Floyd R. Thompson, of Chicago, grand exalted ruler, occupied the reviewing stand at the municipal stadium as the purple and white clad paraders filed by.

Oddly, and ends were disposed of at a final business session preceding the installation ceremonies and initial plans were laid for next year's convention in Milwaukee.

Don't PESTER Mosquitoes

KILL THEM

JUST because mosquitoes pester you, that's no reason why you should only pester them. Give them the quick-death treatment with Black Flag. Just spray the air full of fine, clean Black Flag mist and the skeeters will die in mid-air. Use it for flies, too. A marvelous substance made from rare flowers gives Black Flag this strange death-power over insects. It can't hurt people or house pets.

★For crawling insects, like roaches and bed-bugs, Black Flag Powder gives best results, because you can leave it in the cracks where they hide. It works the same as the spray. Every good grocer, druggist, hardware or general store sells Black Flag. It kills quicker—and costs no more.

IMMUNITY PAPERS
CITED AS PROOF OF CURTIS' GUILT

FLEMINGTON, N. J., July 14.—(AP)—Harry L. Stout, special assistant prosecutor, has asserted he was convinced John Hughes Curtis was once in contact with the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby because Curtis obtained from the coast guard a letter granting immunity from search of his vessel.

He said that when Curtis was tried on a charge of hindering search for the kidnapers the immunity letter was not introduced as evidence because W. A. Benham, commander of the United States coast guard, Norfolk division, was discharged for having issued it.

Just then Van Smith, three-year-old son of an attorney living in the same building, tumbled into the nine feet of water.

Westcott dived, Bond Street clothes, wrist watch and all and hauled the baby out.

"We contend that Curtis was in contact with the right people," said Stout, "and we do not believe he would have desired any boat he was sailing on immune from search by coast guard officers unless he was on the right track. Knowing this, after the baby's body was found, he purposely led state police on the wild goose chase to Cap May and other places, and this is the crime of which the state proved him guilty."

THIRD 'AID DEPOT' OPENED IN COUNTY

Fulton county's campaign to furnish self-help to unemployed persons in the unincorporated areas of the county increased in scope Thursday when the third depot was opened at Howell Mill road and DeFoor avenue. The fourth depot will open today at Riverside.

More than 300 men have been given work in exchange for food, according to an estimate by County Commissioner Walter B. Stewart, who is personally supervising the relief work. Additional orders for simple, but wholesome groceries were placed Thursday through Mose Holland, county purchasing agent.

Under the county's self-help plan of relief work, two days of work is exchangeable for a week's rations for the average family. Weed cutting is one of the principal duties of the self-help squads, and next week a large crew will be turned over to the county health department for the draining of stagnant pools and elimination of mosquito breeding spots.

GEORGE REID JOINS SUIT AGAINST CITY

Plaintiffs seeking relief from pollution of Peachtree creek were joined Thursday by George G. Reid, who filed suit in superior court seeking $12,500 damages from the city of Atlanta because of the dumping of raw sewage into the creek near the Seaboard Air Line crossing.

Several similar suits have been filed against the city, including a petition filed Wednesday by 35 property owners who seek to enjoin the city from emptying raw sewage into the creek.

Colicky Baby Teaches Parrot New Noises

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., July 14.—(UP)—David Parker, lives next door to a baby that had colic. He moved. His new neighbors complained of a screaming infant that disturbed their slumbers. Police found no baby, but a most imitative parrot named Polygon. Officers advised that it imitate a sphinx.

BIG PLANES TO HOP PASSENGERS SUNDAY

One more afternoon of "hopping" passengers over Atlanta in multi-motor de luxe passenger planes at $1.50 per passenger will be necessary to complete the fund for furnishing the new municipal airport building. Manager Jack Gray of the airport announced Thursday. The program will be continued at Candler field Sunday afternoon, beginning at 2:30 o'clock and lasting until dark.

Last Sunday more than 100 men and women took advantage of the opportunity to fly over the city, many enjoying their first flights. The big cabin planes, with experienced pilots at the controls, are loaned free of charge for the occasion by the American Airways and Eastern Air Transport.

OIL COMPANY HEAD HELD ON TAX CHARGE

R. V. Purvis, president of the Arrow Oil Company, Thursday afternoon was held for the Fulton grand jury under $2,000 bond on a charge of violating the state occupational tax law following a hearing before Judge Ralph McClelland in municipal court of Atlanta.

Warrants charging Purvis and H. Kimbrough, bookkeeper, with larceny after trust were sworn out Wednesday night before Judge Luther Z. Rooser. The case against Kimbrough was dismissed. The warrants were taken out by J. L. McCord, who is said to represent the interests of W. L. (Young) Strubling, prize fighter, and his father, "Pa" Strubling, who are now in Australia. Attorney C. E. Moore Thursday dismissed an injunction suit seeking to restrain Sheriff James I. Lowry from levying $1.50 for $11,800 issued on behalf of Comptroller-General W. B. Harrison for the unpaid taxes on gasoline, oil and grease.

TO INTRODUCE IMPROVED BAKING METHODS

ATLANTA'S ONLY COOL... CLEAN AIR-CONDITIONED BAKERY

Offers You Bread 98% Free from Chance of Mould During Summer Weather

---YET NO EXTRA COST TO YOU

The science of air-conditioning is now employed by Colonial Bakers at thousands of dollars expense to give you a loaf which, by laboratory test, reduces the possibility of mould by 98%.

Air-conditioning also means absolute cleanliness. No matter how hot it is outside—or dusty—or humid—every loaf of Colonial Bread that travels along the line from the huge baking ovens to the wrapped package is made under ideal manufactured weather conditions—an even temperature held at 68 to 70 degrees.

Colonial loaves enjoy a gradual cooling process through clean, freshly washed air—air from which impurities have been removed. Humidity is just right—neither too moist nor too dry. Glassed-in partitions show the bread in the making—show the development and the care taken by Colonial bakers to perfect a loaf of bread.

Colonial Bakers are justly proud of the revolutionary air-conditioning given their quality bread, for it means a fresher keeping loaf for you, as well as bread that will cause no waste on account of mould.

*See your bread made this new air-conditioned way.

RUSSELL TO CLASH WITH CRISP'S AIDE

Two Will Be Heard From Same Platform at Black-shear Saturday.

Partisans of Congressman Charles R. Crisp and Governor Richard B. Russell Jr., in their race for the United States senate speculated keenly Thursday on the possibilities of an on-stage clash between the governor and T. Hicks Fort, widely-known Columbus (Ga.) lawyer, at the six-county political rally to be held at Blackshear Saturday.

Governor Russell, who had to forego an invitation to deliver a patriotic address at Twin Lakes Thursday, will go to Cromer's mill, in Franklin county, for a speech today and during the remainder of the campaign will only make political speeches.

Fort, one of the outstanding speakers of Georgia and a leader of the Columbus bar, has been designated to pinch hit for Crisp at the Blacksheat rally while the congressman, who has been in the state only long enough to make his opening campaign speech, resumes a long-delayed rest at his home in America.

Governor Russell Thursday night wired Congressman Crisp asking that Crisp meet him personally at Blackshear Saturday and proposing that the two candidates meet in at least 12 joint discussions over the state "in order that the people of Georgia may be thoroughly informed as to the stand of the candidates for the senate on the important issues of the day."

In his opening radio address, Governor Russell said, referring to substitution of Fort, "I predicted that such men would soon appear on the stump in Mr. Crisp's behalf. I shall not waste my time in debating irresponsible people whom Mr. Crisp might engage in his behalf but will be glad to meet the candidate anywhere in Georgia."

Meantime, plans went forward for a huge barbecue celebration at Americus next Wednesday when Crisp will deliver his first open-air speech of the campaign. An American Legion band will furnish music and managers of the event say that 10,000 people are expected.

With lines fairly well drawn, and exactly two months until the decisive primary, the records of Russell and Crisp promise to be thoroughly aired at Blackshear, in the heart of the state's tobacco belt. Advice from Blackshear Thursday were that a record breaking crowd was anticipated.

The lull in the senate race, caused by the governor's inability to fill his Twin Lakes engagement Thursday and the congressman's week of rest, will be broken today as the governor, who Wednesday sharply protested salient portions of the Crisp opening speech, again unlimbers.

Crisp headquarters continued to receive telegrams and congratulatory letters Wednesday. Crisp managers were silent except to say that the response from "hundreds of Georgians" in every section of the state had been highly gratifying.

Vodka Supply Runs Dry In Capital of Russia

MOSCOW, July 14.—(UP)—A drought descended on Moscow today considered locally more serious than the dry spells which occasionally afflict the grain regions.

The capital's vodka supply ran dry. The shortage was not explained, but it was hoped it was due to transportation difficulties and was only temporary. A run was started on the wine supply, which decreased rapidly.

Kreuger Firm Held Highly by R. G. Dun

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Favorable credit reports on the Kreuger and Toll Company made by Representatives of domestic and foreign banks and a "glowing" report by R. G. Dun and Company were introduced Wednesday at a hearing before Henry K. Davis, referee in bankruptcy.

Creditors of the Kreuger and Toll Company, one of the late Ivar Kreuger's interests, are seeking a receiver.

The Dun report was confidential and was not made public.

Nicholas Murray, assistant cashier of the Chase National bank, testified credits were extended to Kreuger and Toll by the bank on the basis of the favorable reports received from Dun and other companies.

HIGHWAY ASSOCIATION RE-ELECTS OFFICERS

HOLLYWOOD, Fla., July 14.—(AP)—Colonel Joseph C. Stehlin, of Jacksonville, Fla., was re-elected president of the Atlantic Coastal Highway Association at the body's twelfth annual convention today.

C. Hawley, New York city, was named first vice president; Alexander Muir, Trenton, N. J., second vice president; and Harvey C. Granger, Savannah, Ga., third vice president.

J. C. Charles, of Jacksonville, was elected treasurer; F. O. Miller, of Jacksonville, was re-elected chairman of the board of governors; and Robert M. Angus, of Jacksonville, was re-elected consulting engineer for the association.

Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, of Norfolk, Va., was re-elected chaplain.

The office of executive vice president was discontinued, and Jack De Laite, of Norfolk, who has held the post, was made bye manager of the association.

The next meeting place will be selected by the board of governors.

The election was scheduled for tomorrow, but was held today on account of a shortened program. Committee meetings will be held tomorrow.

Efforts of the association were pledged to widening the Maine-to-Miami highway to 50 feet through its length, and to secure 100-foot right-of-ways for possible further needs.

The association adopted a resolution presented by Colonel J. C. Stehlin, of Jacksonville, president, and F. O. Miller, of Jacksonville, chairman of the association's board of governors.

The resolution also called upon the Florida state and federal governments to build bridges over the Florida keys from Matcumbe to No Name key, in order to continue the coastal highway from Miami to Key West.

A second resolution endorsed early federal establishment of the proposed Everglades National park in south Florida.

ARK. BANK ROBBED OF $3,000 IN HOLDUP

BEERIE, Ark., July 14.—(AP)—The Citizens bank here was robbed of approximately $3,000 at noon today by two men who entered while Miss Fannie Raper, assistant cashier, was in the bank alone. They left her in the vault, the door of which failed to lock.

PARIS, Ark., July 14.—(AP)—Two men robbed the First National bank about 1 p. m. today of an undetermined sum of money, locked three men in the vault and escaped. The men in the vault were released by employees returning from lunch.

BODY OF MISSING BOY IS FOUND IN CESS POOL

MINNEAPOLIS, July 14.—(AP)—The body of Leslie Delano, 20-month-old child missing since Friday, was found in a sewage cesspool near his suburban Columbia Heights home late today.

Negro Doomed.

COLUMBIA, S. C., July 14.—(AP)—The last avenue of escape from the electric chair for Hilton Williams was blocked Wednesday and he must die Friday. Governor Blackwood announced he would not commute to life imprisonment the sentence of the Marlboro county negro, convicted of slaying John L. James, white contractor of Laurensburg, N. C., in September, 1930.

TALMADGE PROMISES STATE EXPENSE CUT

Economy Pledged by Commissioner in Address at Talbotton Courthouse.

TALBOTTON, Ga., July 14.—Eugene Talmadge came to this old center of Georgia aristocracy today, where still stands the buildings which housed the state's first supreme court, and spoke to a capacity crowd in the Talbot county courthouse in the interest of his candidacy for governor.

During the course of his address Mr. Talmadge took occasion to discuss the cow, hog, and hen program, and urged the farmers to adopt a five-year crop program instead.

"It's a losing proposition to buy the fertility of your soil in a sack," he said. "Don't buy fertilizer now. The prices are too high, and you can do better by a proper rotation of crops."

Mr. Talmadge promised to darken some of the rooms in the basement of the capitol, and a lot of those pretty mahogany desks in it if he were elected governor.

"If you place the red pencil in my hands, I promise you that I will use it to reduce the costs of the state government just as your incomes have been reduced during the past few years," he said. After reviewing the efforts of the special interests and certain corporations to have him impeached last year "for telling the truth in the market bulletin," Mr. Talmadge promised that he would, if elected governor, urge his successor as

Get away from the use of fertilizer, this is not going to be a prosperous community until you do."

He also urged the election of a legislature whose members would support his platform, promising to direct his efforts toward a sweeping reduction in taxes and in governmental expenditures. "Until the passage of the budget law by the special legislature of 1931," he said, "the governor didn't have much to do except lead parades and attend functions and make speeches. The budget law placed a red pencil in the hands of the governor and I ask you to send a man there with nerve enough to use it."

Mr. Talmadge promised to darken some of the rooms in the basement of the capitol, and a lot of those pretty mahogany desks in it if he were elected governor.

"If you place the red pencil in my hands, I promise you that I will use it to reduce the costs of the state government just as your incomes have been reduced during the past few years," he said. After reviewing the efforts of the special interests and certain corporations to have him impeached last year "for telling the truth in the market bulletin," Mr. Talmadge promised that he would, if elected governor, urge his successor as commissioner of agriculture to ignore the rider of the appropriation bill designated to prohibit the commissioner from writing in the publication.

That rider was illegal, he said, "and if when I am governor, an appropriation bill comes to me for my signature with a rider on it, I'll veto it. I promise you that."

The speaker was introduced by J. L. Taylor, county school superintendent and editor of the Talbotton New Era. In concluding his address, Mr. Talmadge declared that if he were elected he would on January 10 take the best woman farmer in the state and put her in the governor's mansion, explaining that his wife had kept their farm going in Telfair county during the five years that he has been commissioner of agriculture.

"And after we get settled in the mansion," he added, "I'm going to fill up those four or five acres of ground around it with hound dogs, cows and chickens. I want you all to come to see us there and bring me a ham."

BIG RECEPTION GIVEN
TALMADGE AT NEWNAN
NEWNAN, Ga., July 14.—Introducing him as the "next governor of Georgia," Walter D. Sanders, attorney, this afternoon described Eugene Talmadge as "a fighter, tried and true, with the stamina, the courage, and intestinal fortitude to stand by his guns."

"There are more candidates in this race for governor than there has ever been before in the history of this state," he said. "There is a candidate for every interest, every group and every class."

"But there is only one candidate who will be acceptable and will suit the people of this great state, and that candidate is Eugene Talmadge."

"And next September the people are going to rise up and acclaim him with such a vociferous voice that there will be no necessity for a runover."

Mr. Talmadge was described as a man who realizes full well the necessity that agriculture be made attractive and secure, and who had the ability, the experience and the intelligence to bring about that end.

Sanders was heartily applauded and Mr. Talmadge was greeted by wild cheers and shouts when he arose to speak.

W. G. Post, another attorney, introduced Sanders.

After reviewing his record, and discussing in detail his platform, Mr. Talmadge launched into a discussion of the nine candidates who are opposing him in the race for governor.

HOOVER IS PRAISED BY HURLEY IN OHIO

War Secretary Says Democratic Party Lacks Program.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, July 14.—(P)—Deriding Franklin D. Roosevelt's pledge of "a new deal for the American people," Secretary Hurley opened the presidential campaign in Ohio tonight with an address to the republican state convention in which he extolled President Hoover as the champion "of American principles and ideals."

In a quick follow-up of this week's Boston speech by his fellow cabinet member, Secretary Mills, the head of the war department said the democratic party lacks a program.

"It lives only by the criticism it is able to direct against the leadership and constructive program of the republican party," he said. "In many essentials it always follows republican leadership."

"Just what is this new ideal?" he asked of the promise made by Roosevelt in his acceptance of the democratic nomination.

Subsequently Hurley ventured:

"Old Deal Deal."

"The governor may be honestly trying to give us a new deal but he is certainly dealing with the same old deal of the same old deal from which William Jennings Bryan gave the American people so many 'new deals' and from which he has inherited the democratic nominations for president—the same old deal that contains all the radical phrases—all the language of discontent—all the futile attempts to capitalize disorder and arouse class prejudices for political purposes. Beware governor, Mr. McAdoo, Mr. Hearst and Speaker Garner may have stacked the deck on you."

"Let us contrast the vague references of Franklin D. Roosevelt to a new deal with the accomplishments of President Hoover."

"From the very beginning of the depression, the president of the United States continuously has fought for the maintenance of the American standard of living. He insisted upon proper tariffs to meet the flood of cheap goods from demoralized Europe. He upheld the rate of wages. He inaugurated a program of federal construction to stimulate industry and increase employment. He sponsored a building program by state and local governments and private industry. He stopped immigration by executive order."

"Conciliated Capital, Labor."

"He prevented strikes and acrimony between employer and employee that have been the universal accompaniment of all former panics and depressions. He defeated the dole. He mobilized the public opinion to take care of distress."

"He directed the farm board to take and hold surplus until better markets could be obtained. He bolstered up confidence in the financial world and stopped the onrush of bank failures by organizing a private bank pool of $500,000,000. He extended a moratorium—which has nothing to do with the cancellation of debts, and prevented the spread of financial panic to the United States."

"The three major policies of the president stand vindicated," he said.

"We have prevented disorders, riots and social upheavals. We have cared for the needy."

"We are in a depression but we have averted panic and catastrophe. While 20 revolutions have shaken the foundations of other nations, while nations after nations have been driven from their gold standard, the United States, under the administration of Herbert Hoover, is tranquil, solvent and confident."

War Department Bill Signed by President

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(P)—President Hoover late today signed the $300,000,000 war department appropriation bill, the last of the big money measures to be enacted for running the government.

The measure was finally enacted by congress after the house abandoned its demand that 2,000 officers be dismissed for economy.

Members of the family were bitter in their attitude Thursday, asserting that the charge of murder against Pierce will be prosecuted to the extreme limit. Dinsmore's pretty bride was in a state of collapse after visiting the funeral home.

None of his family knew of the killing until Thursday morning when a messenger informed them in Afton that the young man had been killed. His mother was in a state of collapse and was unable to come to Atlanta to claim the body.

Mr. Howard said he had been retained by the family to assist the solicitor in prosecuting the case and said he would push the charges to the limit. Solicitor Ragsdale could not be reached Thursday afternoon and was reported to be working on the case with officers in Douglas county.

Stories of the shooting were at some variance, with Pierce insisting that the gun was discharged during a scuffle for its possession this was corroborated by Bradfield, the negro prisoner. Parks insisted that Pierce fired immediately after he leaped upon the running board.

Mr. Burt said three reliable men were near the scene of the shooting and witnessed the affair but he did not divulge their names. He related a story of federal officers visiting his house at 2 o'clock Thursday morning, several hours after the shooting, to make a search for whisky or products for its manufacture. They found nothing, he said.

Burt said that Dinsmore had been a visitor at his home for two days, having arrived to discuss a land deal with him and finding he was in Atlanta had remained until he returned. He disclaimed any knowledge of the raid still which yielded officers 1,000 gallons of mash, 21 gallons of finished liquor and 19 gallons in process of distillation, they said.

Friends and acquaintances of young Dinsmore said Thursday that he was a young man of excellent habits and standing. His bride was educated at the state normal school in Athens and was a school teacher before her marriage.

Besides his father and mother and wife, Dinsmore is survived by one sister, Miss Emma Dinsmore, and two brothers, Carlton and C. W. Dinsmore.

Assistant deputy prohibition administrator, said, "with the negro in custody they came upon a green coupe traveling in an opposite direction and the negro said that was the car. Two men were in the coupe and the officers decided to investigate. When Pierce leaped upon the running board of the car the pistol was accidentally discharged, according to the reports of our officers."

Pierce is a native of Gainesville, Ga., and of a prominent family. Friends described him as unemployed and asserted that he had gone on raiding parties with officers on numerous occasions, although he is not officially on the prohibition forces.

Reports to Sheriff. He reported the shooting to Sheriff Baggett, of Douglasville, by telephone and inquired whether or not he was wanted and was informed by the officer that he would let him know later. Pierce was in Atlanta Wednesday night and was understood to be here Thursday but could not be located.

According to evidence, no liquor was found in the car driven by Parks and occupied by Dinsmore and there was no information to link him or Dinsmore with the raid still.

Parks gave a detailed account of the slaying and preceding events as follows:

"Dinsmore and I heard shooting coming from woods near Mr. Burt's home and decided to investigate. We started off in my car and when about 300 yards from the house met the officers in another car. As we passed they held out their hands and I applied the brakes of my car but because of an incline it did not stop suddenly. As we were coming to a stop Pierce dashed after us, leaped upon the running board, and said, 'Why don't you ———— rascals stop, and fired immediately.'"

"We had never seen any of the men before. They sneaked no badge and did not tell us they were officers."

Following the shooting Dinsmore's body was rushed to Crawford Long hospital but he was dead and the body was removed to the funeral home of Awtry & Lowndes, where relatives claimed the body Thursday morning.

According to Burt, Sheriff Baggett inquired of him Thursday if he desired to swear out a warrant against Pierce and was told that would be attended to after the funeral of Dinsmore.

His body was carried to Afton Thursday night and the funeral was set for 11 o'clock this morning at Goshen church, the family cemetery. His father is postmaster at Afton and operates a general store and a 700-acre farm.

COMMITTEE BACKS LEVY ON CARRIERS

Council Will Receive New Measure at Monday's Session.

Collection of thousands of dollars a year by the city through assessment on motor carriers was described Thursday afternoon by Councilman Ellis B. Barrett, author of an ordinance to force such carriers to pay the city on a mileage basis. The committee approved the proposal and will offer it to council's session Monday afternoon.

The Barrett ordinance will assess on the basis of the miles used and the weight of the load carried, being from 5 to 20 cents a mile. The committee also approved another ordinance offered by Barrett which would make it a violation for operators of stores to misrepresent sales as "fire, wreck or bankrupt" sales when in fact they are not as represented. The penalty on conviction would be $200.

An ordinance by Councilman Parks Rusk and which would prevent pollution of the air by manufacturing and industrial plants was held over for further investigation. Another ordinance forcing operators of beauty parlors and their employees to stand physical examinations and assessing a license of $50 for two-chair shops was referred to the city attorney for an opinion as to its legality.

Stone Criticizes Opponents In Defending Farm Board

Chairman Says Opposition Has Not Offered One Single Constructive Thought of Any Kind.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(P)—Chairman Stone, of the farm board, today turned on southern critics of his organization, asserting their old system of marketing had held 2,000,000 persons in servitude.

He attacked opposition that has appeared before congress, contending not one single constructive thought of any kind had been offered.

Stone spoke at a conference with newspapermen. Asserting he had done everything possible to get increased funds from congress after the board's appropriation had been cut in half, the chairman referred to those who were attempting to keep the appropriation down.

"They were largely representatives of men handling farm commodities under the old system and they were willing to do everything they could to destroy this act and the effectiveness of what we are trying to do under it," he said. "And yet, take the representatives of the cotton shippers who have been here before congress, before every committee where anything was brought up concerning this act, demanding that appropriations be done away with."

"What has their system brought the south in the last 50 years? Absolute slavery! And what have they offered here before congress to remedy that situation? Not one single constructive thought of any kind."

"And that makes me mad when I think men are that selfish. These men represent only 700 people and there are 2,000,000 people in servitude in the south due to that system."

Asked if the present system has bettered conditions in the south, Stone said:

"It's a start in the right direction. Because, take your old system. I am a cotton grower. I was absolutely a victim of their system. They fixed the price they would pay for the cotton. And yet the price of cotton is based on grade and staple. In addition to that, their price which was quoted at any inner market was based on New Orleans or New York, less the expense of getting that bale of cotton to those inland markets."

"The farmer paid everything—paid all those expenses and none was interested in what that expense was. Now the co-operatives are performing all that service."

"No one claims the new plan is perfect. There are lots of things to be changed about it, but it is a step in

Hoover Will Issue 5-Day Week Order

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(P)—President Hoover today moved toward placing the federal government, wherever possible, upon a five-day week basis as a measure of economy and an example to industry.

White House officials made public a report to the president, indorsing such a move "in principle," and announced that he shortly would issue an executive order carrying out its suggestions.

School Changes in Decatur Are Explained by Board

Reduction in Operating Costs With No Impairment in Standards Is Shown in Statement.

Elimination of the Decatur junior high school and a shift from the 12-year to the 11-year school plan was voted by the Decatur board of education recently because of the desire to shorten the school period, which could be done without any impairment of the standards or standing of the schools, and because of the necessity for the reduction of expenditures, according to a statement issued Thursday by the board.

The Decatur school system adopted the 12-year school period, including junior high school, 10 years ago, and this change was followed by the shift of the Atlanta city school system from the 7-4 or 11-year plan to the 6-3-2 or 12-year system. The Decatur system, under the recent action of the board, goes back to the original plan of 11 years, or 7-4, a system which the Fulton county board of education has never abandoned.

Pointing out that responsibility for operation of the schools is squarely on the shoulders of the board members, the statement gives as additional reasons the facts that there was dissatisfaction with the junior high school and there was a necessity for anticipating the demand for more room for pupils in senior high school, which should be met, if possible, without calling for another bond issue. "If the board felt that it was condemned and repudiated by the community, it still could not surrender its own convictions," the statement said.

The board's statement follows:

"Recent changes in the public school system of Decatur have aroused considerable interest in the community and even in wider circles. This interest has prompted the board of education to prepare and publish the following statement for the information of the public. It is in no sense a controversial paper, but a simple historical statement of the situation with which the board had to deal and of the course it followed, and the results reached in dealing with it. The reader is not asked either to agree or to disagree; this is not an appeal but a statement. But the board wants the interested public to know the facts as the board understands them and the conclusions that the board reached, using such knowledge and ability as it has, in the light of its understanding of the facts. If this statement conveys that information, it will discharge its single purpose.

Constitution and Responsibility of the Board.

"The charter of the city of Decatur creates a board of education of six members, lays upon it the complete responsibility for the control and operation of the public schools of the city, and gives it adequate authority for the discharge of that responsibility. Five of these members are chosen at different times from the majority vote of the city commission. Their terms of office are six years, and they are not subject, as the commissioners are, to popular election and recall. But the chairman of the commission, the mayor of the city, elected to that office by the commissioners, is an ex-officio member, the sixth, and the board is subject to popular election and recall, and is the direct link between the commission and the board and between the board and the citizens.

"The said board of education," the charter says, "shall have entire supervision, direction and control of the public school system of said town as now established, and may make such changes therein from time to time as it deems proper. . . . Said board shall have the exclusive right, power and authority to prescribe the curriculum of said school system, appoint and employ a superintendent of, and all teachers in, said school system; to fix their compensation; to suspend or remove the superintendent or any teacher for cause satisfactory to it, to make such rules, regulations and orders for the government, discipline and conduct of said school system and of the superintendent, teachers, employees and pupils as it may deem proper and not in conflict with the laws of Georgia and generally to have power and authority to do and perform all acts necessary to and proper for the best educational interests of said town, not in conflict with the provisions of this act or the laws of this state." (Section 45, charter of 1909, and not changed in any later revision of the charter.)

"There is no other body to which the board can shift this solemn and weighty responsibility. The board itself must discharge its responsibility to the citizens of Decatur.

as best it can, in accordance with its own judgment and discretion."

Problem Before Board.

"The board naturally has to face many problems; but it has faced one large and complex problem for a long time and this year it felt obliged to make a definite and decisive effort at its solution. That problem involved the whole constitution of our school system and it had two main roots, the one financial and the other educational. These are inextricably intertwined. If one could know what a perfect school system would be, he could not begin to operate it without sufficient money. If he were faithful to his financial responsibility, he could only do the best he knew within the limits of the funds available for his use. But, in spite of its financial perplexities, the board has always regarded the educational problem as of supreme importance. Either problem might be solved by ignoring the other; the difficulty was to solve the two together.

"(1) At the close of the last calendar year, the board had a slight excess of apparent assets over all current liabilities. But these apparent assets included more than $21,000 of unpaid city taxes and nearly $8,000 of unpaid state appropriations for 1931 and earlier. The most of the city taxes—if not all of them—would ultimately be paid, but old state appropriations were of very uncertain value. If the state should pay them, the board could liquidate its debts but the liquidation of those debts was obligatory upon the board, regardless of the action of the state, and the board had to face that problem without counting too heavily upon the receipts of the funds from the state.

"Early in 1932, the board requested the city commission to make the same appropriation for the schools that it had made in 1931, namely, $91,250; but the commission felt compelled to reduce that appropriation by $8,500 with the later provision that $3,500 of that amount might be paid to the board, if funds were available at the end of the year. In other words, the city appropriation was definitely $83,000 less, and possibly (or probably) $85,000 less for 1932 than it had been for 1931. At the same time, the state appropriation for 1932 was about $1,500 less than it had been for 1931. Under these circumstances, some sort of retrenchment was imperative if the board was to be faithful to its financial trust both for the sake of the city and for the sake of its creditors. The board had no means of enlarging its income; it had therefore to cut its expenditures below the level of 1931.

"But another financial difficulty was already on the horizon, and not far away. The high school was already crowded, and in a year or two at most it would be so crowded that the board would become imperative. The board could not, as good citizens, ignore the fact that to meet such a need as a bond issue in any year would have to be laid upon our citizens, and it could not contemplate such a possibility without feeling, if possible, to avoid it. To avoid it, the board had to find a way to own no property and pay no taxes, such a problem may not exist; but the board believes that the taxpayers, the proceeds of whose property and industry support the institution of the community, are entitled to the consideration of all good citizens who enjoy the benefits of these institutions. Consequently, the board desired to protect the taxpayers—particularly the property holders—whom the burden of taxes falls most heavily—from this additional burden, if it could possibly adjust its plans to accomplish such protection without impairing the educational efficiency of the schools.

"(2) Some ten years ago the school course was extended from 11 to 12 years, and the board was convinced that the results of that change justified its continuance. Generally, throughout the south, Georgia included, the schools are organized on an 11-year basis. According to the last government report (1926-1928), Georgia had 6,220,000 pupils in 11-year systems, and 40,000 in 12-year systems; North Carolina had 782,802 in the shorter systems and only 41,549 in the longer; Texas had 1,210,327 in 11-year systems and 7,945 in 12-year systems, and Virginia had 512,520 in the shorter systems of 11 years and 36,787 in the 12-year systems. In line with these figures, there has been, and is, a considerable body of eminently respectable opinion, of which President Eliot, of Harvard, was a vigorous champion, in favor of shortening the period of preparatory schooling, and sustaining the local conclusion of this board that 12 years did not give sufficiently better results than 11 years to necessitate, or even to justify, the maintenance of the longer period.

"The saving of this year in the life and work of the pupil was a consideration of great weight. And it was evident that the return to the 11-year system would not endanger the standards and rating of our schools.

"The junior high school was established by the board 10 years ago as a part of the 12-year system. If that system should now be abandoned, the junior high school would be retained in a modified form, or it might be abolished; but the board that created it has the same right to abolish it.

"But the effort to retain a junior high school in an 11-year system creates its own series of problems. It may be taken for granted—sustained by the government reports—that a one-year or two-year junior high school would hardly be justified as a separate institution and organization. There is practically no tendency, where separate junior high schools are operated, to maintain them in any other form than as three-year schools. But such a three-year junior high school, in an 11-year system, must get one of its three years either from the grammar school or from the high school, so that such a system would assume either the form 5-3-3 or the form 6-2-3.

"In a 12-year system, the junior high school would become a somewhat glorified grammar school, without justification for a separate existence; in the latter case, it would be maintained at the expense of the proper organization of the senior high school; and in either case it would run counter to the policy of practically all systems in which separate junior high schools are maintained. For the separate junior high school is almost exclusively confined to systems of 12 years or more.

"But, even under the 12-year system, the board had never been wholly satisfied with the Junior High school, the proceeds of whose property and industry support the institution of the community, are entitled to the consideration of all good citizens who

Noe Divorce Action To Go To Higher Court

MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 14.—(AP) Mrs. Ellen M. Noel, denied a divorce from her husband, Dean Leslie M. Noel, Episcopal rector here, is going to the supreme court with her fight for a divorce and custody of two children, she said today.

"No law in the world can make a woman live with a man if she doesn't want to," she said. "Of course I'm going to keep my two children. What a question to ask a mother."

Mrs. Noel had charged that she wanted another child and the dean refused her. She said she saw him once a week, when he called to take the children to Sunday school. "He hasn't, however, asked me for a date," she smiled.

In our system. More than that, it seemed to some members of the board to be grounded and operated upon a false educational and social philosophy, and not to justify itself either in better education or in better citizenship. While the board was not unanimous in this adverse opinion, it was unanimous in the opinion that the Junior High school lay at the center of its problem, and that the problem could not be solved without dealing drastically with that school.

The Solution.

"After considerable discussion—the culmination and conclusion of many previous discussions—the board unanimously decided to return to the old 7-4 system, abolish the Junior High school, and divide the Senior High school. Four main considerations led to this decision:

"1. The desire to shorten the school period from 12 to 11 years—which could be done without any impairment of the standards or standing of the schools, and would save both time for the pupils and expense for the board;

"2. Dissatisfaction with the junior high school—which, in any case, would have to be considerably modified, and in an 11-year system seemed hardly to have a place;

"3. The necessity for the reduction of expenditures—which seemed to the board to be best met by the return to the 7-4 plan; and

"4. The necessity for anticipating the demand for more room for pupils in the senior high school—without calling for another bond issue.

"The present crowded condition of the senior high school, and the fact that the boy pupils and the girl pupils in that school are almost exactly equal in number, pointed directly to the division of the school into a boys' high and girls' high and to the utilization of the junior high school plant for one of these divisions. These considerations, supported by others that cannot now be mentioned, led the board to adopt the plan of a divided senior high school.

Results.

"Such changes naturally raise many questions in the minds of those interested in the schools, and are apt to meet with more or less of opposition. But the board tried to find and give due consideration to all pertinent questions before it took its final action, and nothing that it has since heard in the way of criticism, advice or correction has changed its mature conviction that the new system will be better and more efficient than the old.

"It has been alleged that the new plan will not effect any financial saving. But the board worked out its new budget in detail, showing such saving, before it took its final action.

"It has been alleged that the senior high school was already in danger of losing its place on the list of accredited schools, and that, unless it changed its library policy—a change involving considerable additional expenditures—it would lose that place. This statement is wholly incorrect.

Hull Raps Tariff In G. O. P. Platform

UNIVERSITY, Va., July 14.—(AP) Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, in discussing the democratic tariff platform tonight said that the party platform "indicts the narrow, selfish and unsound policy of economic isolation which since 1920 has been carried to the utmost extremes in this country."

Senator Hull, addressing the University of Virginia Institute of Public Affairs, asserted that "these same platform provisions proclaim the clear-cut and fundamental difference of economic policies in contrast with those of the party in power."

He vigorously denied the contention that there is no fundamental difference between the tariff platforms of the two major parties.

"The economic section of the democratic platform was built," he said, "upon the bedrock foundation that since the war we are living in a new era, under new and transformed conditions which imperatively require new and modernized economic policies. The platform provisions recognize the complete breakdown of the economic policies of the party in power since 1920 and the corresponding bankruptcy of its statesmanship."

For High school; and the total number of Junior High school students represented—including those of families with children in more than one school—is a little more than one-fifth of the registration of that school.

"The board draws no general or individual conclusions from these facts; but it is obliged to submit the question whether such a petition ought to be considered as a representative and authoritative expression of our citizens against the ignorance and tyranny of the board. Even if the board were willing to be governed by petitions, which it is not, and ought not to be, it would have to conclude that this petition lacks the weight that has been claimed for it, and ought to be very largely reduced before it could be properly evaluated and considered.

Actually, the petition represents a very small part of our registered citizens, and an even smaller part of the taxpayers of the community whose taxes support its enterprises and institutions.

"If the board felt that it was condemned and repudiated by the community, it still could not surrender its convictions. For it does not hold or surrender them at the behest of any man, but it could and would resign. But as long as it feels that, in spite of some disagreements that are always to be expected, and that are signs of a vital and wholesome public interest, it still enjoys in personnel and policies a general acquiescence of the community, it will continue to discharge its duties as it sees them, without fear and without favor. It cannot offer the public any more than that; it would not offer it any less."

Alabama Grand Jury Scores Police Killing

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 14.—(AP)—Unable to obtain enough evidence for a true bill, the Montgomery county grand jury today returned a report of its investigation of the slaying of T. D. Carmichael, 37, last week, scoring "promiscuous shooting on the part of police officers."

The report stated the grand jury regretted "exceedingly our inability to find a true bill in the matter of the Carmichael shooting at Cramton Bowl on account of lack of evidence."

Officers quick to pull the trigger were characterized in the report as "cowards in disguise."

"In the case of the Carmichael shooting, there was unnecessary cowardly shooting on the part of some of our officers. In this particular case, the name and address of the deceased was known to at least some of the officers and he could have been readily apprehended at a later date; and therefore it seems particularly unjustifiable that he should have been shot down."

Florida Barber Law Is Upheld By Court

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 14.—(AP)—The state supreme court today upheld the constitutionality of the 1931 barber law which regulates the practicing of barbering and requires licensing of all barbers and places the administration of the act in the hands of the state board of barber examiners.

The court's decision was a victory for the state board of barber examiners, which had been fighting the law since it was passed in 1931.

The law requires that all barbers be licensed by the state board of barber examiners, and that the board have the authority to make and enforce rules and regulations governing the practice of barbering.

REYNOLDS CASE PROBE AWAITS OLDER BROTHER

Cablegram Says Reynolds Jr. Will Arrive in About a Week.

BY MORRIS DE HAVEN TRACY.

(Copyright, 1932, by the United Press.)
WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., July 14.—(UP)—The investigation of the mysterious death of 20-year-old Smith Reynolds was understood today to be awaiting the arrival of Smith's older brother, Richard J. Reynolds Jr., son and heir to the name of the founder of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company.

"Young Dick," as he is called in Winston-Salem, was on his yacht near the Azores Islands when Smith fell mortally shot a week ago Wednesday morning, upon the bed of his wife, Libby Holman. He was advised by radio of the tragedy and sent word immediately that he was coming to Winston-Salem. No further word had been received until today, when a cablegram to his secretary here revealed that he could not reach Winston-Salem for at least another week. "Young Dick" is known hereabouts as a man of action in the true, youthful sense of the term. Quiet and unassuming under usual circumstances he becomes fiery and decisive, it is said, when aroused. Winston-Salem citizens believe he will demand and probably what is more important, finance full investigation of the case. Authorities continued minor investigations today. They gathered in bits of evidence which would constitute exhibits should the case go before a grand jury. A section of the door jamb from the bathroom opening off Libby's boudoir was taken and added to the Mauser automatic with which Smith was killed, bits of the steel jacket from the fatal bullet and like articles, in the safe of Sheriff Fransou Scott. The door jamb carries fingerprints which may at some time be of value. Reports were circulated that a New York gunman was sought in the case. Officers are known to have given consideration to the possibility of the testimony of H. Raymond Kramer, young Reynolds' tutor, that Reynolds had told him that "he thought" he saw the lights of a strange automobile near the Reynolds home the night of the shooting. But the possibility of a "gunman" was largely discounted. There seemed to be no reason for anyone hiring a gunman to do away with Reynolds.

"Young Dick" Reynolds, it is believed, may also assist in settling the affairs of his brother's estate. Smith, it was reported here, in addition to leaving something less than $50,000 in property, had an indefinite amount of insurance. The report here is that this insurance was in some foreign company, probably British or Australian, and rumor has it that it ran as high as $300,000. Whether it becomes a part of his estate or not is not known. It was possible that it would go to Libby Holman, the widow, or it might be drawn that it goes to the Reynolds estate or to members of the family.

Richard Jr. has spent little time in Winston-Salem of late. Some months ago he took to life at sea. He purchased a freight steamer, with an eye to the provision in his father's will which sets forth that for each dollar he or Smith earned, two dollars from the estate should be added. So, instead of indulging in a fine yacht at great expense, he had quarters for himself fitted out on the freighter and used the remaining space for cargo. He has carried tobacco and other freight, at so much per pound for the tobacco company and has made his yacht pay dividends.

On the freighter Richard carries his own airplane ready at any time for flight.

Walker Names Doctor To Sanitation Body

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Mayor Walker has appointed his friend and personal physician, Dr. William Schroeder Jr., to a long term as a commissioner of sanitation which will keep him on the city pay roll until July 1, 1938, it became known today.

The term which Dr. Schroeder, chairman of the commission, originally held expires July 1, 1935. At the same time the mayor appointed Leonard C. Smith, engineering member of the commission, to the term Dr. Schroeder vacated. There was no formal announcement at city hall nor would anybody in the mayor's office discuss political speculation that the shifting might have been done to insure Dr. Schroeder's retention in the city's service in the event the mayor should be removed on the charges pending against him.

Early in 1929 the sanitation commission was organized and three commissioner jobs paying $22,500 annually were provided. Dr. Schroeder was appointed to one of them and Charles S. Hand, also a friend of the mayor, was named to fill another.

Hand resigned last month with the statement he could "no longer tolerate the insistent and persistent illegal actions" of Dr. Schroeder. The latter vigorously defended his administration.

ROYALTY EXTENDS FINAL TRIBUTE TO FORMER RULER

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—Two women in simple black, surrounded by former kings, by princes, dukes, ambassadors and an assemblage of 2,000, were the central figures today in an impressive ceremony at Westminster cathedral where a high mass of requiem was sung for former King Manuel of Portugal.

One of these sorrowing women was Donna Augusta Victoria, widow of the former monarch. She wept silently with her head bowed during the long service. The other was former Queen Amelia, his mother. She held her head erect but her lips were tightly pressed together.

Former King Alfonso of Spain and former King George of Greece were among the mourners. The Duke of Gloucester and the Duke of Connaught represented King George V.

BYRD ACCEPTS PLACE IN ECONOMY LEAGUE

BOSTON, July 14.—(AP)—Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, air conqueror of both north and south poles, has accepted the chairmanship of the New England organization committee of the National Economy League. The league is dedicated to war on extravagances in government to bring about a reduction in taxes.

Admiral Byrd said that while he would devote his energies and time to perfecting the New England organization of the league, his own aides would push forward preparations for his second venture into the antarctic for which the date of departure is still indefinite.

SAVINGS FOR CITY URGED BY EXPERT

Elimination of 71 Employees of Water Department Recommended.

Elimination of 71 employees from the pay roll of the waterworks department and other economies to effect a total annual savings of $80,000 were recommended Thursday afternoon by W. Evans Chambers, survey expert of the city government, as he filed his report with the finance committee.

Councilman James L. Wells, chairman of the finance committee, called a special meeting of the committee for 3 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon to consider the report.

The finance committee in joint session with the traffic committee recommended changes in the present taxicab ordinances which would give the Black & White Company exclusive right to operate in Atlanta in return for which council and the mayor would have the authority to regulate rates, to force maintenance of service for the convenience and necessity of Atlantans. If the ordinance is approved the government will benefit by about $2,500 a year through assessment of licenses on a mileage basis.

Chambers' report after a two-month survey of the department recommends that 71 of the 220 employees of the department be eliminated. He criticized W. Zode Smith, general manager of waterworks, for failing to place new equipment into service to save in operations costs, cited that for the past nine years it has cost approximately $10,000 more a year to operate the river pumping station than the Hemphill station although there is a greater pressure at the Hemphill station. In his reductions he pointed out that if the economies he recommends and the cuts he lists are made the effect on employees will be paid approximately 25 per cent more than is being paid by private concerns for the same class of service.

Chief among the recommendations are the following:

1. Consolidation of meter readers and bill deliverymen with the assistance of one inspector.
2. Discharge four of the eight bill deliverers to save $4,356. "Private concerns paralleling this department employ only three bill deliverers to cover the same territory and 4,000 more bills," according to the report.
3. Cut out five of the 25 clerks and stenographers in the department to save $5,400.
4. Eliminate 10 employees from the No. 1 pumping station and an equal number from the No. 2 station to save $12,160.20 and $11,686.32, respectively.
5. Eliminate two filter plant employees to save $3,456, 14 shop employees to save $10,400, and 20 laborers to save $11,700.
6. Reduce pay scale in pumping station to save $5,453, and of meter readers to save $2,415.
7. Charge rent for houses occupied by 23 employees living on waterworks property, to bring a revenue of $4,560.

ALA. DRY WOMEN TO LIMIT BALLOTING

GADSDEN, Ala., July 14.—(AP)—Officials of the Alabama Women's Christian Temperance Union are dissatisfied with the prohibition plank of the Democratic and Republican parties and they intend to vote only for dry candidates for congress.

Following a meeting yesterday at the home of Mrs. Lamar Smith, of Gadsden, state president, a statement was issued expressing opposition to the prohibition plank on both parties.

The statement said final action on the party platforms and the at-large of the Alabama organization of the prohibition plank will be determined at the National W. C. T. U. convention in Seattle, August 11-18.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—The national prohibition board of strategy today placed upon a committee the task of drafting a statement of policy upon which its member organizations may unite in vigorous defense of the eighteenth amendment during the coming political campaigns.

The foremost question to decide was whether the board should endorse Herbert Hoover for re-election, await a statement of the chief executive's personal views on repeal before taking such action, or refrain from any endorsement and simply provide those interested with statements of the candidate's attitude and record on the prohibition question.

These three courses were the subject of extended discussion at an all-day meeting of the board. Bishop James Cannon Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, urged his colleagues to wait until Mr. Hoover speaks. Dr. Edwin C. Dinwiddie, executive secretary of the National Council, wanted an immediate endorsement. Both were appointed to the policy committee which is to report tomorrow.

Meeting in private late tonight to work out its statement, the committee planned to present it to the full board in the morning. Then it will be debated and put to a vote. The board's action has no binding effect upon its 35 constituent organizations, although its influence is great.

"The views of the national temperance organizations will be in harmony with and be guided largely by the declaration the group makes," Dr. Cherrington said tonight. "The real objective from the standpoint of the prohibition forces is to keep the eighteenth amendment in the constitution at a great standard of government with regard to a traffic that is a recognized social evil."

The Rev. O. R. Miller of Albany, N. Y., president of the National League, who repeatedly has attacked Governor Roosevelt upon prohibition and other issues, conferred for more than half an hour with Walter H. Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries.

One group, in which Dr. Oliver W. Stewart, president of the First Baptist Church, was prominent, favored an immediate declaration for the re-election of President Hoover, confident that he had not changed his attitude against repeal.

A second group, which included Bishop James Cannon Jr., and Dr. Clarence True Wilson, who represent the Methodist churches, south and north, on the board of strategy, wanted to await a personal declaration from the president before action by the board.

A large part of the discussion concerned the question whether a member of congress who votes for the re-election of an amendment to repeal the 18th, thereby votes for repeal. This, the prohibition leaders saw as an important factor with relation to their policy regarding elections to the senate and the house.

The younger group was favorable to backing a new submission, confident the people would reject any proposals for changing the 18th amendment.

On the other hand, older workers argued such a stand was insincere. The submissionists replied their method was the practical one and said it was better to be "for" a definite proposition than to be continually opposing "everything."

NEW YORK W.C.T.U. ADJOURNS WITHOUT LEDGING SUPPORT
OCEAN GROVE, N. J., July 14.—(AP)—The interstate conference of the Women's Christian Temperance Union tonight adjourned without pledging support to any presidential candidate in the election this fall.

Instead, the conference—composed of delegates from New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland—heard a denunciation of the prohibition plank of both the democratic and republican parties by Mrs. Mamie D. Colvin, president of the New York W. C. T. U.

"If anything, the republican plank is worse than the democratic," Mrs. Colvin stated. "At least we know where the democrats stand. The republicans' has been deliberately confusing and evasive."

Speaking further of the republican plank, she said "it will result in repeal of the eighteenth amendment if carried out to the letter."

No action was taken on the resolution introduced yesterday asking President Hoover to uphold the eighteenth amendment in his acceptance speech and to make known a "definite stand" on prohibition. It remained today in the committee of the presidents of the five state organizations.

UPSHAW URGES UNION OF 39 DRY GROUPS

INDIANAPOLIS, July 14.—(AP)—William D. Upshaw, presidential candidate on the prohibition party ticket, today proposed a temporary alliance of the 39 organizations supporting the 18th amendment in the choice of presidential and vice presidential candidates.

He sent a telegram to Dr. Arthur J. Barton, chairman of the 39 organizations supporting the amendment, to that effect at Washington.

"I have assured Senator William E. Borah, and I now assure you that I stand ready to surrender nomination if coalition of bone dry forces will get back of Borah or Gifford Pinchot," Upshaw telegraphed.

Spain Ends First Year Of Parliamentary Rule
MADRID, July 14.—(AP)—Spain today celebrated the first anniversary of republican parliamentary rule.

HOOVER ACCUSED OF DESIRE TO HALT POWER TRUST QUIZ

In the case from court records and prevented publication of its allegations.

The case now is pending in the federal court at Norfolk. It centers about the contention of the federal power commission that it has jurisdiction over the New river project and the company's contention it has not.

Asserting that Huston Thompson, special counsel for the commission, filed the government's answer in the case in March, Norris said Abbott got all copies immediately and kept them. "Being an attorney, of record in the case," Norris said, "he was allowed to take it (the answer) from the files. He refused to give it to newspapermen."

The power company was afraid to have the public see the allegations in Mr. Thompson's answer, Norris continued.

Norris then read from a letter he had from Thompson that at a later conference of attorneys, Abbott took the government's answer from his pocket.

"If that had happened in my state," Norris shouted, "the attorney who did it would have been disbarred for dishonest and unethical practice."

"But when a power trust attorney does it it is called 'bright and sharp practice.'"

"He was lightly tapped on the hand by the judge, who said 'don't do it again.'"

"It would be interesting to know just what made this great power company afraid to have the facts known to the public," Norris said.

"They are afraid of the truth; they cannot face the truth," he roared.

He read extracts from Thompson's brief, in which Thompson charged that the company "at all times has followed a system of writing up its investments," and sold securities "based on fictitious values."

Norris said the answer showed that the company, with an actual investment of $72,000,000 had sold $138,000,000 in securities, or $66,000,000 above the total book value of its properties.

The "Mr. Abbott" to whom Norris referred was identified as John L. Abbott, of Lynchburg.

The papers in the case were filed at Lynchburg, but trial of the contest has been transferred from the western district court to the eastern district court at Norfolk.

ABBOTT HAS NO COMMENT ON NORRIS ACCUSATIONS

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—John L. Abbott, attorney, said he did not care to make any comment after hearing an abstract of the address in the senate today in which Senator Norris, republican, Nebraska, charged "unethical" tactics had been employed by Abbott in fighting the government's claim to jurisdiction over a proposed project of the Appalachian Electric Power Company.

On Home Loan Aid

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Congressional conferees reached an agreement tonight on the administration-sponsored home loan discount bank bill, but were deadlocked on the currency expansion amendment attached to it.

House conferees attempted to attach to the Glass billion-dollar currency expansion rider the Goldborough dollar stabilization bill which passed the house several months ago. The senate refused to agree.

The partial conference report will be presented to the house tomorrow and the house conference committee will ask for indorsement of its stand.

JACKSON, Miss., July 14.—(AP)—An executive reprieve saved Paul Wexler, 19-year-old Hattiesburg, Miss., youth, and Andrew Prince, 21, negro, from the gallows where they had been scheduled to hang at noon today for the slaying last December 9 of J. L. Odum, filling station operator.

Governor Sessett Connor granted a 15-day reprieve last night, stating he desired to further investigate the case of young Wexler. The plea for commutation had been based on the ground the youth was not mentally responsible.

THREE MEALS A DAY

KITCHEN TESTED RECIPES

by Sally Saver

THE FIRST CANNING OF THE SEASON.

As the twentieth century progresses, it becomes increasingly necessary for the housewife to can or put up her own fruit, vegetables and meats. Commercial canners, through the employment of chemical and other scientific experts, have rendered the dangers of canning practically nil, and have made it possible for housewives everywhere to enjoy the freshness of foods canned right on the spot where grown.

Nevertheless, there are many homemakers who still think that there is nothing that beats the properly home-canned fruits and vegetables for flavor. And so there are many people doing a little canning each week.

This way of accomplishing it is very interesting. If a few berries are left over from the day's meals, just cook them, add sugar in proportion of three-quarters pound sugar to each pound of fruit, cook again till thick, and pour into a jelly glass, or an empty mayonnaise jar with screw-top lid.

When apples are in season the countless parings or pulp, seeds and skin left from making apple sauce are ideal for a glass or two of home-made apple jelly, clear as crystal, pink and delicious.

There is absolutely no better jam or preserve to be had than the kind that black caps, or black raspberries, make. The rich, royal purple juice and the "different" flavor make an extremely delightful aromatic jam which may be thinned down with sugar syrup and used to very good advantage later on in the summer for a beverage or for ice cream sundae toppings.

General Rules for Canning. There are a few of these general rules, which if followed verbatim and religiously, will make home-canning interesting and successful instead of tiresome and "spoiled."

1. Use good quality, well-known commercial jars, either with a screw top or with a glass clamp top. Use large or wide-mouthed jars for bulky fruits. Examine every single container for cracks, chipped glass, bubbles or tiny holes. Bumps or rough edges around the top or neck of the jar are most trouble later on in the season, after all your hard work, for such conditions allow air to enter, and thus spoil the contents.

2. You should always try every top before sterilizing the jar. Only in this way will you know for sure which ones may be used again, and which you must replace. Nothing is more disconcerting than to find an imperfect jar top right in the midst of filling the jar with fruit. When you are all hot and anxious for success, it is no time to find troubles of any nature!

3. Another important thing to remember is to always use new rubber rings. It is false economy to save pennies and lose dollars. It doesn't make any difference how many times you use a rubber ring, it will be new last year, and you had some left over, do not use them. Buy absolutely new ones. Rubber loses its resiliency, and when used by bending it over double and pressing it hard, good rubber will not leave a mark at the pressed down point or fold.

4. Sterilization means actual boiling, not simmering or allow jars and rubbers to merely stand in water. Nor is it enough to scald these things—you must actually boil them for at least 10 minutes in a kettle of water large enough to completely immerse all portions of the jars and rubbers and lids.

When sterilized, lift each jar out with a long, previous, sterilized fork or spoon, drain water out of it, and set it right side up on a thick cloth-covered surface. Place the cap on the jar, but do not screw it on. The jars are set until filled, then covered. Fill one at a time, with fruit that has just been boiling, packing the fruit carefully with some degree of force, so that the air is driven out of the jar, but not too tightly, so that the fruit will not be crushed.

5. After filling, dip brand new rubbers, soaked in hot water for five minutes, into actually boiling water, snap them into place, and screw or snap the lids in place with a thick cloth to protect your hands from scalding.

6. Screw jars as tightly as possible, invert the screw-top kinds, allow jars to stand without touching each other until they have cooled down to room temperature.

These directions are for canning according to the old-fashioned open kettle method. Recipes for these canned fruits may be secured from any of your own cook books.

Other Methods of Canning. Other methods of canning, which seem simpler to some housewives, are the cold pack, the hot pack, pressure cooker canning, oven canning. Pressure cooker canning is perhaps the safest of all for the amateur, because the fruit is practically certain to be properly sterilized, if directions are followed exactly. Oven canning is interesting, and will be entirely successful if your oven has a temperature regulator. Otherwise, it would be better to try one of the other methods of canning.

For the cold-pack method, quite a large container is necessary if you intend to do much of it. Otherwise, if you plan to can but a few jars at a time, this is the preferred method, provided you have no pressure cooker. In this method of canning, the jars are packed with cold, uncooked fruit, water and sugar is added for fruits, or water and salt for meats and vegetables, and the jars are then sealed with the screw-top lids, and are placed in a large pot of water, and the water is brought to a boil.

Dr. J. S. Leonard, after years of study, found a real internal Pile remedy. He called his discovery HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1,000 patients with success in over 900 cases. And then decided every Pile sufferer, no matter how stubborn their case, might try his prescription with a money-back guarantee.

So why waste time on external remedies or worry about operations when you can get HEM-ROID tablets with guarantee of money refunded if they do not cure your Pile misery.—(adv.)

Couple in Marathon Wedding

Hubert Wilson and Betsy McClure, the couple in the center, will stage a mock wedding at the marathon dance, Palais Peachtree, tonight. On the left are Mack Robertson and Alice Robinson, and on the right, Johnny Armstrong and Helen Armstrong, feature dancers of the marathon. These dancers are past the 25th hour.

After that, the foods are sterilized in a certain length of time, depending on the foods used. Tables of time to cook cold-pack jars will be found in cook books.

EAT, DRINK AND BE BEAUTIFUL

Beauty, health and cleanliness go together. Yet many women would be horrified at a darkened finger nail, telltale wrinkles, or a state of inner uncleanness that is a far greater handicap to beauty.

Think for a moment what happens to the body when it is not properly cared for. The body is made up of many parts, and each part has its own function. If one part is not working properly, the whole body is affected.

Put Bulk Food in the Diet. One especially valuable bulk food is bran. Bran is very absorbent and carries liquids through the system. It stimulates the digestive tract to its normal rhythmic movement. Its bulk distends the intestine, gently sweeping impurities from the body.

Constitution, due to insufficient bulk, should yield to bran, after a fair trial. In abnormal cases a competent physician should be consulted at once.

Methodist Laymen To Support Dry Law. FAYETTEVILLE, Ark., July 14. (AP)—The laymen's conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, adjourned its three-day session here today after going on record in support of prohibition.

The conference repudiated both the platform of the democratic party and the platform of the republican party. Following a general discussion of the platform of the democratic party, and religious nature, the following five-point program was adopted:

1. Begin immediately to teach temperance in all departments of the church.
2. Appoint at once a lay committee on temperance and prohibition to work among church members and to stimulate their activities in behalf of observing and supporting the eighteenth amendment.
3. Co-operate in holding district lay conferences in the interest of the dry laws and regulating use of intoxicants.
4. Be ready to send speakers to audiences everywhere to aid the prohibition cause.
5. Lend all possible aid and support to any organization actively engaged in the fight for temperance and observance and retention of the eighteenth amendment.

PEACE NEGOTIATIONS SUCCESSFUL IN BRAZIL

Two State Officials Bring Rebels Into Accord With Government.

RIO DE JANEIRO, July 14.—(AP)—Peace negotiations with the revolutionaries who seized control of the state of Sao Paulo were reported today to have been successful.

The news reaching Rio de Janeiro was that the federal interventionists (governors) of the states of Mato Grosso and Minas Gerais had conferred with the "constitutionalist" rebels of Sao Paulo and had brought them into accord once more with the federal government headed by Provisional President Getulio Vargas.

From the military point of view, the federal government seemed to have the rebels bottled up in their state and confidence was expressed that no matter what happened the movement would be stamped out within a few days.

U. S. CLOSELY WATCHES SOUTH AMERICAN AFFAIRS. WASHINGTON, July 14.—(UP)—Three revolutions and two international ruptures in South America today caused concern in the state department anxious to maintain peace in the adjacent continent where thousands of American citizens and hundreds of millions of dollars may be endangered.

Active state department efforts to restore order were limited today, however, to persuading Bolivia and Paraguay to resume negotiations over the Chaco dispute and to consideration of a request from Uruguay to take charge of its embassy in Buenos Aires.

1. A revolution against the federal government of Brazil.
2. A revolution against the Ecuadorian government.
3. A revolution against the Peruvian government.
4. Severance of diplomatic relations between Argentina and Uruguay.
5. Withdrawal of the Paraguayan delegations from negotiations to settle the Chaco dispute.

ARGENTINA, URUGUAY MAY MEDIATE DISPUTE. BUENOS AIRES, July 14.—(AP)—An offer of mediation between Argentina and Uruguay may result from discussions inaugurated today by several Latin American and European ambassadors at the suggestion of a South American nation which has not been publicly identified.

Diplomatic relations between the two nations were broken yesterday. Uruguay was angered because Argentina showed a disposition to believe erroneous reports that General Severo Toranzo, former commander of the Argentine army and now an exile in Uruguay, was aboard a cruiser of the Uruguayan navy when the ship came to Buenos Aires.

NORTHERN BAPTISTS TO REMAIN IN COUNCIL

SAN FRANCISCO, July 14.—(AP)—Delegates to the National Northern Baptist convention here today blocked on the floor a threatened break with the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

The revolt movement, led by the Rev. W. B. Riley, of Minneapolis, the fundamentalist leader, centered on the question of appropriating funds for the federal council. Mr. Riley and his followers opposed an appropriation.

A compromise resolution finally was adopted which authorized the $7,500 proposed for the federal council be divided equally between that body and the home mission society.

Ten Troupers Felled By Ambush Gunfire

MECHANICSVILLE, Md., July 14. (AP)—Ten members of a carnival troupe were wounded, three seriously enough to require hospital treatment, early today when a band of men described by police as "drunken hoodlums" fired on them from ambush.

The more seriously wounded, all of whom were taken to the Casualty hospital in Washington, were: Clarence Lester Hill, 28, of Greensburg, Pa.; Frank Hilsard, 32, of Ekdale, W. Va.; Mrs. Ann Hilsard, 28, of Ekdale, W. Va.

No arrests had been made early this afternoon but state Patrolman J. R. Miller, who investigated the shooting, said he had "a good idea" who the men are.

The trouble "arose" last Saturday, members of the troupe said, when citizens of Mechanicville complained they were being "tipped."

DON'T BE SLOWED DOWN BY STALE GAS

YOU PAY FOR POWER...GET IT!

Only FRESH gas gives you all the power you pay for. Why? Because as gas gets staler, it gets weaker. Loses volatile "easy starting" elements. Falls victim to a chemical change—and gets sluggish and feeble.

Another thing. The staler the gas, the stickier it is. And the more apt it is to make a motor knock.

That's why Gulf is pleased to announce a system that assures you of getting FRESH-MADE gasoline—packed with power. Two important developments make this possible...

First, Gulf refines out of its fine gasoline the complex elements that cause rapid deterioration. Hence, Gulf gas stays FRESH longer.

Second, Gulf speeds up this FRESH gas in a hurry! Huge Gulf refineries are located in many parts of the country—so that every Gulf station is close to a source of FRESH gas. A vast fleet of tank trucks rushes FRESH gas to Gulf pumps every day.

Don't let stale gas deaden your motor! Get FRESH-MADE gas—packed with power. Get Gulf—for a faster, cleaner, quieter motor.

Library Extension Chairman Urges Ga. Boys and Girls To Read This Summer

The new state chairman of library extension for the Parent-Teacher Association of Georgia, Mrs. George H. Slappey, 2226 Woodland avenue, N. E., Atlanta, in the following letter to the presidents issued this week, urges as a main objective at this time that every Georgia boy and girl be given access to free books so that he or she may read with profit and pleasure during the long summer vacation days.

"The Parent-Teacher organizations in the towns fortunate enough to have public libraries are urged to co-operate with them in their plans for summer reading under the guidance of librarians trained to put into the hands of the children books chosen with their taste and interests in mind. Perhaps the only library in your community is that which you have gathered together in your school. If this is so, your school library should be open at least once a week so that the children may borrow and return books."

"If there are no local library facilities, the Georgia State library commission at the state capital Atlanta, offers the loan of books for both adults and children entirely free except for fetching and bringing, either by personal call or by express or mail. The school library may be supplemented with these books, or they may be had as an entire supply for a P. T. A. reading club for children or adults. Certificates and awards are made by the library commission and by most libraries to children who complete a summer reading course. If you haven't a summer reading club in your association, form one as soon as possible."

Mrs. Slappey urges the associations also to interest themselves in adding to the library shelves books which the children love and which the teachers and librarians recommend. She states that books are a source of amusement, bring richest rewards in personal improvement on the part of children or grown-ups, and all over the state there is an apparent increasing use of the library and its facilities, and it should be the care of the associations to provide as far as possible, for the inclination in the community which they serve, to enjoy good literature.

Why not let them enjoy "real" parties often... they cost so little. Growing youngsters need the precious food elements so abundantly present in good ice cream... mineral salts... vitamins... tissue building proteins.

See that you get Dolly Madison quality and fine flavor brought out by the Limited Expansion Process. Insist on getting the Dolly Madison freezer-filled pint package.

Note from the illustrations the relatively smaller size of air globules and that there is less total air space in ice cream made by this new method.

By the old method large air globules produce "puffy" less tasty product. Much of the fine flavor escapes.

Ice Cream made by Limited Expansion Process has smaller air globules and correspondingly more actual ice cream of better flavor and texture.

"ALL-BRAN LIVES UP TO REPUTATION"

Her Constipation Overcome by This Delicious Cereal

If you are troubled with constipation, read Miss Bundy's enthusiastic letter:

"I would like to congratulate the one who discovered ALL-BRAN. It really does live up to its reputation where it is said to 'relieve constipation'."

"I used to feel poor all the time—just down today to visit her after reading an advertisement in a magazine about ALL-BRAN I got a box. It has evermore helped me, and it is not hard at all to eat."—Miss Mary Bundy, Bennettsville, S. C.

Laboratory tests show ALL-BRAN brings two things needed to correct common constipation: "Bulk" to exercise the intestines; Vitamin B to help tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood.

The "bulk" in ALL-BRAN is much like that of lettuce. Within the body, it forms a soft mass. Gently, it clears the intestines of wastes.

How much safer than taking pills and drugs—so often harmful. ALL-BRAN is not habit-forming. Two tablespoons daily will overcome most types of constipation. If your intestinal trouble is not relieved this way, see your doctor.

Use as a cereal, or in cooking. Recipes on the red-and-green package. At all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

Dear Miss Chatfield: Here I am at 43 in a position in which I have always said I would not allow myself to be. I am a mediocre, small-calibered professional man. I graduated from college with honors. I had the best sort of education and to get that one cannot be altogether without ambition. I am said to have a good mind and I am respected in my community. I have a fine little family. However, none of these things solace me for the humiliating fact that I am, according to the standards I set for myself, a dismal failure. I have earned enough money to provide for my family in a simple way but I have not earned enough to secure my future against my own disability. I could have made more money if I had not had scruples against doing things that many of my confidants did. But it is not so much a question of lack of money that makes me happy but a question of lack of prestige. I am unable to do what I expect to be famous. I have little to show for a lifetime of hard work. I didn't desire or expect fame. I expected wide recognition. What have you to say to a man like me? T. Y. P.

Answer: Only this to say, that at 45 the average man's life is irretrievably determined. If he hasn't succeeded according to the standards he set for success he will never succeed according to those standards. It is entirely possible that in periods of depression when all is gloom and he may underestimate his success. If he hasn't made and accumulated money before 45, unusual trick of fate excepted, he never will. If he is comparatively unknown at 45 he will be unknown. If his prestige is limited by the lines of his country or his industry, in all likelihood, those lines of limitation will not be broken. It is that a dreary picture? Not at all.

Let us see what went into the making of those standards of success by which the failure is measured. Probably vanity, pride in mental attainment, desire to make one's self an object of pride to wife and children, desire to be pointed out on the street as a man of distinguished ability and a man of affairs, a desire to justify to oneself and to one's parents the money that was spent on the preparation of life's work on an unconscious eagerness for power. None of these things is, per se, wrong or even ignominious. But having failed to gratify these ambitions, consequently failed, let us see what is yet attainable and what has already been accumulated. That other side of the picture is more pleasing.

Fame is fleeting, say the historians, and the poets. To keep one's name in the public eye requires a price big enough to frighten any financier. And pray what difference is there in having one's prestige limited by the standards set by one's country or the state or the United States? Very little. To be known affectionately by the multitude one must have made some contribution to the welfare of the world. Any other sort of prestige or notoriety is necessarily "like the snow upon the desert's dusty face."

And as for money, what more can any man ask than "this day his daily bread?" Thousands that have had wealth are now satisfied with the assurance of this and no more. One of the vastly rich men in this country once said that after one passed the figures that bought a home and clothes and a moderate amount of amusement one began to lose out of life as much as he gained by the increase in income, and for securing the family against your death or disability, there is yet time to do this by the route of saving and by the increase in income, and the reward is as he may understand his success. If he hasn't made and accumulated money before 45, unusual trick of fate excepted, he never will.

Love and health and faith in God and man are the true riches by the side of which all others canker and rust and turn to dust. A healthy mind, a healthy body and the greatest riches that any father can bequeath to his children and they are the best guarantees of healthy character. To be respected in one's community and looked upon by one's neighbors as the best savior for wounded vanity. To have the courage to make discrimination between what is ethical and what is unethical, even when it means sacrifice of material gain, the consciousness of this courage is solace for being "unknown, unhonored and unsung."

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT BY ELY CULBERTSON.

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

The King we't up anyway and held the trick.

The Knave of clubs was now played from dummy, and South followed suit. He then entered his hand with a trump and led another club. Now East and West were conceding a trick in diamonds, and the score was jotted down.

This formally completed, Mr. Robertson remarked to the declarer: "That is a remarkably played hand, Mr. Blank."

"I thought myself I played it very well," was the complacent response. "Probably to this day neither East nor West nor South knew just exactly the manner in which the contract was made."

TODAY'S POINTER.
Few intentional revoke are made at the contract table. A player who would intentionally fail to follow suit when holding a card of the suit led should be regarded as the practice is a violation of ethics, and a high standard of ethics is an absolute essential in the greatest of all social recreations.

TOMORROW'S HAND.
The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow: South—Dealer.

East and West vulnerable.

The bidding:

South West North East
1♠ 2♥ 3♠ 3♥
3♥ Pass 4♥ Pass
Pass Pass 4♥ Pass

North and South, as can be seen, must lose three clubs, one diamond and one heart, and thus were apparently doomed to a defeat of 2 tricks. However, the outcome was much different.

The King of clubs was led, and when it held the trick West followed with the club Queen, which South, studying the method of playing his hand, ruffed. A small ruff was then led and won in the Dummy, and the singleton heart led, upon which East played the Ace. Unwilling to make the King of diamonds good, East decided that he would again force the declarer, and led his last club. South again trumped, then drew the remaining adverse trumps, led a small card of the diamond King, upon which West refused to play the Ace, wishing to give the declarer a guess, but Marital unhappiness is largely due to emotional acts acquired in childhood in regards to sex, according to Miss Esther McGinnis, of the National Home Economics Association, Washington, D. C., who spoke Thursday at a meeting of the Institute of Parent Education at Emory University.

In speaking of what parents can do to alleviate the ignorance of children in matters of social hygiene, Miss McGinnis, who is in charge of the association's parent education, said that parents should first inform themselves with knowledge of the facts of life, and then overcoming all inhibitions, discuss it openly and freely with their children. Before parents can do this, she said, they must first become educated in their own marital relations.

Miss Martha McAlpine, in charge of parent education at the State College of Agriculture, at Raleigh, N. C., discussed "What the Child Should Know," lamented the number of children that grow up without adequate knowledge of the facts of life, and the need of parents to acquire a vocabulary on such subjects and a willingness to impart knowledge to children.

"The aid of social hygiene," according to Professor R. E. Wager, of Emory University, and president of the American Social Hygiene Association, which spoke Thursday afternoon, is to recognize sex as an appetite and to educate it into a wholesome manifestation.

Those attending Thursday afternoon's session were shown "The Gift of Life," a film produced by the American Social Hygiene Association, which was shown for its purpose the giving of children an idea of sex. Plans have been made to purchase one of the films by the state council.

Style by Annette

A charming dress that has its points. A small patterned crepe silk is most satisfactory and flattering to the heavier figure. And don't you love the light topped bodice? Note the fluted ruffles of the bodice, the way it is drawn snugly across the front, tying snugly at the left side. The bias seaming reduces the hip bulk, and adds a model for a smarter and more suitable model for the matron or whose whose figures can support a few slimming lines. For summer wear, it would be delightfully lovely fashioned of handkerchief linen with plain contrasting, or of white tub silk.

Style No. 429 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3 1/8 yards of 39-inch material with 2 1/8 yards of 39-inch contrasting.

Our large Fashion Magazine will help you economize. It includes styles for the miss, the stout, the matron and adorable models for the kiddies. Also modern embroidery for the home, lingerie, pajamas, etc. Price of pattern 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap card carefully.

SYNOPSIS.
Tony Brooks was 18 when his father and mother were killed in an automobile accident at Centerville, his home town. He had intended to study art but his father had decided to 112 before she got a job in Madame Simons' dress shop in New York. Her frantically in telling women what they could not wear soon brought her dismissal on the same day that Leslie (Lee) Moran, a model, was discharged. Lee had so much money and Tony shared her third-floor back room at Mrs. Higgins' with her. Before Tony got a job at an art gallery, Lee became a tail dancer at El Tango. When she met Adam Leonard, whom she called Uncle Lenny, he was a kindly looking man between 30 and 40. Tony Stewart, a young engineer in love with Lee, missed her at once and tried to bring herself to tell for an evening with Leonard and an out-of-town friend, Donald Kemp, as they were leaving for Mrs. Leonard's wife and son. They met and made a scene. Leonard had been unhappy married and Kemp, a lawyer, was raised for Mrs. Leonard to get a divorce. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

It was fantastic to think that she, Tony, cared deeply about Tom Stewart. Fantastic, but true. How could she convince Lee anything so unlikely had happened? She couldn't. It would be folly to try. And if, by some queer kink in the cable of truth she had misinterpreted the message in Tom's eyes, he would regard her as a sentimental idiot. She must hold her tongue. Try to extricate herself and Lee from this smirching tangle into which they had been precipitated. Lee was munching chocolates, pacing the floor with flapping black satin mules when Tony came in.

"Donald Kemp is on his way tonight," Lee greeted. "I phoned him. He says not to see anyone or answer any questions until he gets here. He says just to go on as if nothing had happened and if that El Tango detective or anyone else shows up, be deaf and dumb."

"Do you think we should have done it," drawl Mr. Kemp into it, I mean?"

"I don't think anything else," Lee asserted, quashing a chocolate between nervous teeth. "He was among those present, wasn't he? Maybe he got a wife, too, for all we know. Maybe he wouldn't like it spread on the front page that Mr. Donald Kemp was out taking in the town with a couple of beautiful dolls who had nothing better to do. Well, here's his chance to save the old homestead. He seemed willing enough. Said he'd catch the first train."

"Then he should be here tomorrow morning." It was a relief to know Donald Kemp would implant his dominance between them and the disaster that must surely overtake them and shame them until it was too late for truth to matter. Had Lee, with her native shrewdness for design, hit upon the truth? Was Donald Kemp trying to save his own face, as well as the faces of his casual companions? Somehow the possibility that Kemp was married had not occurred to Tony. He seemed a free spirit. Free to confer her favor where he would, without dalliance, without reservation.

"I'll get supper," said Tony, whisking into a smock.

"You'll get freshened up and ready to answer the bell when Tom Stewart calls," Lee dragged on her stockings. "I've got to get back to the dance hall and I don't want to leave Tom dangling. I've told him I'd be here tonight with some work and he could treat you to a square meal. He took it like a lamb."

"Lee, you don't understand... I'm not going to supper, or any place with Tom Stewart." Tony sat down on the edge of her bed. Planted herself there firmly.

Lee left off examining what would shortly be a crack in her black satin slippers to regard Tony with offended eyes.

"What's the matter with Tom?" she demanded. "Isn't he up to your class?"

"Lee, Tom Stewart is—he's fine." Tony had said adorable she could not have kept the truth out of her voice. "It's simply well—I'd rather we didn't make engagements for me. I'm tired, and after I rest up—I want to work." He said to go right back and meet Tom. Don't go back to El Tango. That woman, Mrs. Leonard, might come there, or the detective.

"If they do, all they'll have for their snooping is the trouble it takes them to do it. Don Kemp said, 'business as usual.' He said to go right back and let Uncle Lenny turn up, dance with him like nothing's happened. No use acting guilty when I'm here."

Now Tony must tell Lee. I think I love Tom Stewart! I'm sure I do. I must not see him again because he belongs to you. It would be better for us to part now. Lee, to go our separate ways while our friendship is warm and clean. I'm sorry, so desperately sorry, but one but you, dear friend—I like you, need you. But I am not to be trusted—not with him. If his eyes plead that message again, I shall answer it—in his arms.

"Gosh," Lee's arms were around Tony. Her head snuggled on Tony's shoulder. "I don't know what I'd do without you, pal. Where have you been all my life? I'm a lone wolf, you know, except for my dad, and I'd be better off without him. He's a lion—anyhow he's out. He finished my mother. He'd have finished me, too, if I wasn't smart enough to keep out of his reach."

"My brother ran away when he was a kid, hardly old enough to peddle newspapers. We never knew what became of him. We never had enough to eat. Charity food, charity clothes and a baboon father crazy with drink, cursing and cuffing because he didn't squeeze out a few pennies for more bum hootch."

"After mother—ha. I foxed him. Hid away at the other end of the city, changed my name, and gave him the slip. No more kid pay envelopes for papa."

"Until I met Tom. I didn't care much when he happened. I got that job at Simons'. I found out that women, plenty of them no smarter, no better looking than me, eat honey-dew melons every morning for breakfast. When they want to step out they call their maid to bring the latest Simons' model from a closet full of 'em, tell the butler to order the chauffeur to fetch the car, pin on the orchids, and that's living. That's the life I want to taste. The life I've got to taste, before I settle down in ham and cabbage. Maybe Tom can provide a few orchids later, but he can't now for a regular diet. And I'm not taking any chances."

"That's my story, darling. I don't know why I haven't told it to you before. Maybe because I was afraid you wouldn't care to go on—the way you are. You're the only human I've ever cared a hoot about, outside of my mother, and Tom."

Tony pressed the bright head close to her cheek.

"I'm glad you told me, Lee," she said huskily. "I'll go with Tom, and I'll take care he doesn't dangle."

Adam Leonard's wife was willing to "forget it all" for a price. The price was her freedom and a substantial sum of money, which would permit her to live as she saw fit. Indulgently. Carelessly. With enough to the bazaar in her daily portion to keep focused on their eyes she desired most to arrest.

"Uncle Lenny came through," Lee awakened Tony to tell her the news. He was waiting for me at El Tango. He bought off the management for the evening and went where we could talk it out over a bite and a nip. Clara wants a divorce. She's wanted it for a long time, but on her own terms. There's a check-out something and Uncle Lenny couldn't see her knocking him up as a present. And she wouldn't go where they hand out the papers while you wait. Now he's hunking the breaking point. He don't care what she gets or where, so long as she gets it. Lookes what I drew."

Lee held out a purse, satiny black suede mounted with gold and onyx. Her laugh was a good bit like the coo of a contented young pigeon.

NEW TRIAL IS GRANTED TO AUSTIN WESTBERRY

Austin Westberry, under life sentence for the murder of W. H. Brown in a robbery at the aged man's filling station near Valdosta August 21, 1930, was granted a new trial Thursday by the state supreme court.

The verdict was reversed on the ground that the trial judge should not have admitted in testimony the dying statement of Mrs. Brown, who was killed at the same time as her husband, and that the jury should not have been told that the statement was admissible only if made by the person whose death is involved in the trial, the contention Westberry was tried only for Brown's death.

Chief Justice Richard B. Russell concurred in reversing the verdict, but held the lower court was correct in admitting testimony as to the nature of Brown's wounds. All the other justices signed the majority opinion.

BANDITS BIND, GAG MANAGER OF STORE

Bound hand and foot and gagged by two white men early Thursday night, W. W. Goldman, of 442 Forrest avenue, manager of a Rogers grocery store at 608 Highland avenue, N. E., was robbed of $63 and his watch, according to police reports. The bandits, armed with pistols, forced Goldman into their car, robbed him and then rolled him out of the car in Grant park, where he was found some time later by children.

Goldman told police that the two men encountered him on Highland avenue near Boulevard after he had closed his store for the night. One held a gun on him while the other tied the ropes about his hands and feet, he said. After taking his money they drove to the park, where he was dumped out of the ground.

FAVORED OLYMPIC STARS FACE KEEN BATTLES

EMMETT TOPPINO, FRANK WYKOFF SEEDED STARS

Metcalf Also Given Preference; Spectacular Trials Are Seen.

By Alan Gould.

Associated Press Sports Editor. PALO ALTO, Cal., July 14.—(AP)—Although well "seeded" in the draw today for best, favorites in the battle for places on the American Olympic track and field team face the keenest kind of a fight to survive the preliminaries tomorrow.

In this assembly of the nation's athletic great and near-great, most of the stars are so strong and well-matched that the experts anticipate a flock of upsets as well as record-smashing performances before the final tests of speed, skill and brawn have decided the best three performers and, automatically, the shield-wearers in each event.

There will be trials tomorrow in 13 of the 18 Olympic events, leading up to the finals Saturday at Stanford's stadium. There, with three non-Olympic contests in the low hurdles, weight throw and three-mile walk, will also make up the national senior A. A. U. track and field championship program for 1932.

CERTAIN VICTORY.

The New York Athletic Club's collection of superstars, headed by Gene Venzke, George Spitz, Leo Sexton, the Lermond brothers and Percy Beard, appears certain to romp off with the national team title, despite strong west coast opposition. The A. A. U. affair, however, is strictly a side-show to the main Olympic event.

The process tomorrow of reducing a field of 201 starters in the 13 preliminaries to 82 survivors for Saturday's finals promises to furnish real thrills. Among the sprint aces, although Emmett Toppino, Frank Wykoff and Ralph Metcalf have been "seeded" in separate heats of the 100-meter trials, there will be only six survivors by the time the semi-finals for this classic are concluded later in the afternoon. If, as is generally expected, Eddie Tolan, Wykoff, Metcalf and George Simpson come through the 100 safely, all they will have to do then will be to run one 200-meter test each.

Tolan, the world record-holder, will get brisk competition throughout. He is drawn against Toppino in the first heat of the 100 and "seeded" in the 200 with Hee Dyer, of the Los Angeles A. C. and Wykoff.

The 400-meter aces, Ben Eastman, of Stanford and his intercollegiate conqueror, Bill Carr, of Pennsylvania,

THE SPORTLIGHT

The first big act in the world's greatest sporting show is now ready to break on Stanford's track and field at Palo Alto. The setting is gorgeous—a panorama of blue and green and gold—sunshine and cool winds and at least four or five of the leading duels in track history in which practically every one of the 250 picked athletes reports perfect condition with no sign of any ailment.

Saturday will be the big day—but the heats on Friday will be almost as good. For example, in the 100-meter test, the battle between Toppino and Tolan will be one of the main thrillers; so will the heat in the 200 meters among Tolan, Dyer and Wykoff.

The high tension of this occasion is well hidden back of a mask of apparent unconcern, but you can sense the heavy strain and the deep determination of almost every entry to qualify for the Los Angeles Olympic show later on.

These next two days will be in the nature of a triple war—far west, midwest, and east—splitting the nation in three sectors with lines that run from Canada to the southern border. And the far west, once well in the lead, is now fighting for its athletic life.

The day of action that will furnish proof has arrived at last.

In looking over the various heats, I pick Toppino, Wykoff and Tolan to qualify for the 100 meters—in what order no one knows and one guess will be about as good as any other.

In the 200 meters I like Metcalf, Tolan and Hee Dyer, with Kiesel close.

In the 400-meter run the three survivors should be Eastman, Carr and either Warner or Bowen.

For the 800 meters I like Geung, Bullwinkel and Hornbostel. And for the 1,500 there is Venzke, Hallowell, either Mangala or Lermond.

Three Sure Winners.

Naming the final winners in each event is another argument. Wykoff, Tolan and Toppino are as close as split hairs. So are Carr and Eastman. But the three leading choices are Metcalf in the 200-meter—Geung, of Washington, in the 800, and Venzke, of Potomac, in the 1,500. These three should win.

Metcalf is a human power—are "seeded" in separate trial heats and cannot meet before Saturday, but they face strong competition from the outset.

Eastman's initial foes include Pete Bowen, veteran of the New York A. C.; Ed Russell, of Michigan, and James Gordon, of the Los Angeles A. C. Carr will race Karl Warner, of Yale; Ivan Fuqua, of Indiana and Ed Abowich, of Southern California, among others in a field of eight.

If there are any "soft spots" in the draw, they appear to benefit Eddie Geung, Washington star, in the 800-meter run and Gene Venzke, eastern choice for 1,500-meter honors.

Five finalists will be determined in the preliminary trials in six of the field events—the broad jump, hop, step and jump, javelin, discus, shotput and hammer throw. The high jumpers and pole vaulters, as well as candidates for the 3,000-meter steeplechase, 5,000 and 10,000 meter runs, will confine their efforts to Saturday only.

CRABBE IS FIRST IN SWIM TRIALS

CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 14.—(AP) Clarence ("Buster") Crabbe, of Los Angeles, pulled in ahead in the 1,500 meters free style of the Olympic team trials, held here today.

After a long and hard swim, Crabbe, a freestyle swimmer from Florida was right on his heels all the way.

If the record, 14-year-old Ralph Flanagan, of Miami Beach, qualified for the United States team along with Crabbe and James C. Cristy Jr., of the University of Michigan, who finished third.

These three, with Al Schwartz, of the Illinois Athletic Club; Ray Benson, of Navy Academy, and Margaret Kallie, of Los Angeles, today definitely became members of the swimming squad of 21 which Uncle Sam will take to the coming Olympic games in London.

Flanagan was off after Crabbe with the sun and the 1,500 meters. The "record buster" pulled out in front on the first lap and about half way had lengthened his lead to 12 yards. He expanded it to 15 yards thereafter.

Tomorrow, Olympic representatives in the breast stroke and 200 meters free style will be selected.

No record was ever in danger today. Crabbe finished in 60 1/2 seconds in the hundred. Crabbe consumed 20-19 1/2 in his third lap pull to first in the 1,500 meters.

Camera Records This Hole in One. MEMPHIS, Tenn., July 14. (AP)—A movie camera recorded it when Emmett Spicer Jr., former southern golf champion, made a hole in one on a local course yesterday. There was not any trick about it. Spicer and Miss Elizabeth Dunscomb, a local favorite, were playing a two-some. They approached the 12th hole. Miss Dunscomb made her shot and told Spicer she would make a moving picture record of his shot.

$10,000,000 Coca-Cola Suits Are Dismissed. NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Supreme Court Justice Albert Cohn, in decisions announced today, dismissed four suits brought by the Pepsi Cola Company, and three candy store chains, against the Coca-Cola Company, totaling $10,000,000.

On the ground that the charges did not constitute interference with contracts. The plaintiffs were Pepsi Cola, Loft, Inc.; Happiness Candy Stores, Inc. and Mirror, Inc. All had charged that employees of the Coca-Cola Company had in various ways attempted to disrupt the sale of Pepsi Cola and thus interfere with contracts which the candy stores had with Pepsi Cola for the exclusive rights to dispense that beverage.

Justice Cohn ruled that the various acts of trespass alleged might constitute basis for "injunctive relief" against their continuance "if such cause of action were intended. The three candy chains have suit for libel totaling $50,000 against the Coca-Cola Company in which they alleged that the Coca-Cola Company tried to damage their business reputations by claiming that their agents had been served Pepsi Cola when Coca-Cola was ordered. Justice Cohn refused to dismiss these suits.

Babe Plans To Quit AND BECOME A BENCH MANAGER Game at Age of 40

NEW YORK, July 14.—(UP)—Babe Ruth will quit playing baseball when he is 40 and probably become manager of a major league team, he announced definitively today.

The big fellow said he would play two more seasons, with the New York Yankees, if Colonel Jacob Ruppert desired his services, and then would lay down his bat for good in the fall of 1934. He is 38 now and will be 40 in February, 1934.

George Herman is not certain what team he will manage. There has been considerable talk of his taking over the Boston Red Sox, but he claimed nothing definite had developed yet on that proposition.

When baseball's most heroic figure retires from the diamond, he will have played 21 seasons of professional baseball, 15 of which were with the Yankees. He now is working on a one-year contract at the presidential salary of $75,000, the highest paid player in the game.

The Babe announced his plans today during an interview in the sweltering dugout at Yankee stadium, just before the game with the Cleveland Indians, in which he drove his twenty-sixth home run of the season.

"I'm still in pretty good shape," the great slugger explained. "But I'm not as good as I used to be. There's no denying that. I figure I'll knock out about 45 home runs this season, and about the same number in each of the next two seasons unless something happens to me."

FEELS YEARS. "I'm beginning to feel the years a little, and I believe it would be unfair to the public, to Colonel Ruppert and to myself to try to keep on playing after I'm 40."

The reporter asked if Ruth would attempt to serve as player-manager for a club.

"No, I'll simply be manager," Babe replied, wiping the perspiration from his face. "Boy, you could try an egg in this place."

GOLF PRO OUT. When questioned about the possibilities of his becoming a professional golfer, the Bambino said there was no chance of that.

"Oh, I might shoot a few exhibition games. But I'll be too old to go in for golf in a big way. Golf is like everything else; to be a top-notch you have to grow up with the game. I play a fair game now and then, hitting pretty close to par. But I'm not consistent."

The "man who built Yankee stadium" said it made him feel rather sad at times because reporters and everyone else were more interested in him when he would retire than when he was hitting.

"But that's the way it goes," he concluded. "They always want something new. I'm that way myself. And speaking of things that are new, I suppose in a couple of years there'll be some youngster out there in right field, playing where old Babe Ruth used to. Well, so long kid, it's my turn at batting practice."

WINS ELKS' GOLF. BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 14.—(AP)—W. E. Rose, Kearney, Neb., today won the Elks 54-hole annual golf tournament, turning in a card of 287-207.

In the second place nine strokes behind the leader was H. W. Reading, Mass., whose score was 291-216. R. B. Winters, Linton, Ind., took third place, with a card of 285-251.

More Finns Arrive For Olympic Games NEW YORK, July 14.—(UP)—Finland's second contingent of Olympic athletes, totaling 40, and the Swedish team of 40 members, arrived in New York on route to Los Angeles, Calif., today.

J. Sigfrid Edstrom headed the Swedish party. Lieutenant Colonel K. E. Levalanti was in charge of the Finns.

Leonard To Meet Townsend July 28 NEW YORK, July 14.—(UP)—Benny Leonard, former lightweight champion, has signed to meet Billy Townsend, Vancouver welterweight, in a 10-rounder at Queensboro stadium July 28.

Townsend's manager, Jack Allen, in Los Angeles, has agreed to terms for the bout, and has notified Townsend to start for New York immediately. Townsend is expected to fly here from Vancouver.

Townsend will be the most formidable opponent Leonard has met during his comeback campaign. Part of the proceeds will go to the open air camp for crippled children, supported by the Madonna House of the lower East Side.

'Hizzoner' Censures Lookout Decisions CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., July 14.—(AP)—Decisions handed out by umpires in the game between the Memphis Chickens and the Chattanooga Lookouts yesterday were censured in scathing terms at police court here today by Judge Martin Fleming.

Denunciation of the decisions came after his honor dismissed the case against G. H. White, charged with throwing a bottle at one of the umpires.

"Their decisions would exasperate a saint," declared the usually jovial judge. "If they continue to operate around Chattanooga we soon will not have baseball but 'pop ball'."

Some of our best citizens were outraged at the treatment the Lookouts received and it's a wonder those umpires were not deluged with bottles," he added.

WHITNEY STAR RUNSSATURDAY IN RICH CLASSIC

Top Flight Favored for $70,000 Race; Faireno Gains Support.

CHICAGO, July 14.—(AP)—It looks like a Whitney year again on the American turf.

With C. V. Whitney's great Equipoise, the owner of the great stars groggy and his fashionable flapper, Top Flight, reeling off victory after victory, comes Mrs. John Hay Whitney's sleek two-year-old, Crowning Glory, to reap the rich harvest of his class so far in 1932.

Keeling off 5 1-2 furlongs in 1:04 3-5, Crowning Glory just about clinched the two-year honors for the season at Arlington Park yesterday by defeating a fleet field in the rich Hyde park stakes, which netted his owner $17,500.

It will be Top Flight's turn next to enrich the Whitney turf treasury, which was swelled by more than $400,000 last year principally because of the Flapper's work. The Whitney filly will compete in the richest three-year-old stake of the year, the $70,000 Arlington classic, Saturday.

Although Top Flight ruled as a favorite with the big race three days away, considerable support swung over to the fleet Faireno today. The winner of the Belmont and Dwyer stakes gained his support yesterday by running six furlongs in the remarkably fast time of 1:10 4-5, the swiftest of the famous "heat bug," which he uses to crush his foes into a state of helplessness, is a much improved wreath of late. He has been on a winning streak, and will make every effort to continue it at Clinkstock's expense.

Both are thoroughly experienced performers, and well matched. Steinboer's advantage in strength being offset by the Indian's 10-pound pull in the weights. Clinkstock is one of the biggest men in the game, tipping the scales at 230 pounds. This bout is slated for an hour and a half time limit, best two falls out of three.

Ernie Dusek, kid brother of the famous Rindy and a top-flight grappler in his own right, meets George Zaharias, the ponderous Greek mat villain, in the other half of the double windup program. Zaharias has shown here often in the past and never fails to arouse the fans to fury with his rough tactics. It is a cinch that Dusek, who has defeated Steinboer and Speer here, losing only to London, will be the crowd's favorite in this match, but he will have to be at his best to cope with the rugged Greek on even terms.

Tickets for the bouts are on sale at Davidson-Paxon's and the Piedmont Hatters, with ladies, as usual, being admitted for 75 cents.

Voigt, Three Pros Tie for Metro Lead LONG BEACH, N. Y., July 14.—(AP)—Shattering par by two strokes with an 18-hole score of 70, one and a half strokes under par, George Voigt, three professionals, Walter Kosack, Willie Klein and William Malcolm, today paced a card of 97 over the Long Beach Country Club course in the first round of the 72-hole medal play for the metropolitan open golf championship.

Voigt, a Walter cup winner, who has been on the side lines with sprained ankle, played brilliant golf to tie the three professionals and lead the country's greatest golfers, with the exception of Gene Sarazen, United States and British titleholder, who did not compete.

Kosack and Klein, the first of the four leaders to finish, each won a prize in 35 strokes, while Malcolm, a little known professional from Essex county, New Jersey, and Voigt carried 36 each over the out-going nine and came home in a tie for 34.

The pace setters held far from a safe lead, however, as only one stroke behind with 17 strokes to go, Willie MacFarlane, former holder of the national and metropolitan titles, and Wild Bill Mehrling, victor in the 1929 metropolitan championship.

Still within the title hunt, only two strokes back of the quartet were MacDonald Smith, the defending champion, Joe Turnesa, Johnny Golden, Alfie, Victor Ghisani and an amateur, Robert Lay, former Yale baseball player from the Greenwich Club.

Fights Tonight

Young Mount Star Hurls Great Game as Pirates Take Game.

PITTSBURGH, July 14.—(AP)—Manager George Gibson told one of his youngest pitchers, Bill Swift, to go out and stop the Boston Braves tonight.

Swift did it. He gave them just four hits and hung up a 6-1 win, his ninth of the season.

Swift permitted only one Brave to reach third base. Horace Ford tripled and scored on Worthington's long fly in the fourth inning.

The Pirates left upon Harry Seibold for two runs in the fourth, Vaughan's single, a triple by Gus Shyr and a single by Dwyer wrestling the lead from Boston.

The Pirates sewed up the game in the sixth. Vaughan's second hit was followed by a two-base miff of Barbee's fly by Leach.

Shyr was passed intentionally, but Tony Piet came through with a single that scored two runners. An infield hit and Swift's Texas leaguer accounted for the other two tallies.

A circus stop by Maranville of Grace's smash over second helped materially in stopping the rally.

By Swift, who pitched in the eighth and Cunningham finished the game for Boston.

Amateurs To Box On Lakewood Card Tonight marks the sixth of the amateur boxing shows at Lakewood park. Last week's performance set a new attendance mark and also included 15 bouts.

New faces will mingle with the old tonight. Among the most recent entries are Harvey Mulkey, Walter Barber, Paul Forester, Billy Lawson, Big Boy Cooke, Ad Major, King Luckie, Karl Bobgood, James Vhatman and Chuck Burns.

The old guard will also be on hand in an attractive assortment of battles featuring Ed Long, Bill Brazil, Bruce Dean, Joe Mendoza on the card against the best opponents available.

While Red Barrett and Chief Redman will face each other in one of the main events, Howard Mitchell and Gene Cox have also been rematched.

Other boys who were on hand last week should report no later than 6 o'clock, as they will have a better chance of being matched. When they arrive late the schedule is sometimes already made up and they are left out.

Ladies are admitted free when accompanied by a paid escort. Children are charged 10 cents. Entries must call Jay Thomas, Henlock 1212-M.

East Point Offers All-Star Program Boxing fans will be presented with a bargain program tonight when the East Point American Legion Post No. 51 sponsors an all-star 34-round boxing card in the East Point city auditorium.

Ralph Taylor, a clever boxer from Birmingham, will meet Bill Johnson, soldier from Fort McPherson, in a scheduled 10-round main bout.

Sharing honors with them are two scrappers, who will meet in the 10-round bout. They are Charlie Brown, East Point pride, and Battling Smiley, Atlanta, Brown has a long string of victories and is well liked in these parts for his aggressive nature. He will meet a formidable foe in Smiley, a fighter who never lets up for a minute when he is pitted against a strong opponent.

Others included on the card are as follows: Fredrick, who will be the return of Chick Hefey to the game. But it is not clear whether Hefey, Lee, and Davis got busy.

Wrestling, Boxing On Buckhead Card An all-star wrestling and boxing bout will feature the regular weekly card tonight in the Buckhead gymnasium, 200 Pace's Ferry road.

Featuring the wrestling card, Jack McAdams, one of the outstanding of the younger wrestlers in the southern circuit, will meet George Mauldin, another local product, in a two-hour match.

McAdams is a scientific wrestler who never fails to please the fans. Mauldin is of another type, using rough tactics, and is rated as one of the meanest grapplers in the south.

Johnny K. O. Vickers, veteran pugilist from Buckhead, will vie for honors with Bob Anderson, Buckhead favorite, on the same card, when he headlines the boxing half with K. O. Katz, Birmingham, for ten rounds.

Vickers, coming back to the ring after a year's lay-off, has been doing some intensive training in the last few months and states that he will be in good tonight when he clinches through the ropes tonight. Before Vickers' lay-off from the ring, he won his last 18 out of 19 fights by knock-out.

In the preliminary bout, Kid Alfonso will meet Battling Brown for four rounds. A battle royal will open the card. Popular prices will prevail.

CARLTON TO PRESS SWEAT-BOX INQUIRY

Vigorous Prosecution of Two Prison Camp Officials Is Promised.

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., July 14.—Governor Doyle E. Carlton says the state plans vigorous prosecution of the two prison camp officials indicted in the sweat-box death of Arthur Mailefert, young prisoner, but the incident is a rare exception in the prison life of Florida.

Every effort, the governor said today, will be made to see justice done in the case of Captain George Courson and Guard Solomon Higginbotham, charged with murder of Mailefert, who was found dead in a sweat box where he was placed for punishment and safe-keeping.

The Mailefert case, he added, "represents a rare exception in the prison life of Florida. On the whole, our prisoners are well cared for and well treated. This is evidenced by the fact that we have never had a prison riot."
